Caira: "We are going to be okay"

BY JAYNE W. MILLER
 WILMINGTON - Despite mixed messages from Beacon Hill, town administrators want to reassure residents that local aid cuts do not mean cuts in programs for FY2011.
 Town Manager Michael Caira presented the Senate's Ways and Means budget figures to selectmen Monday night. The Senate proposed $72,000 more than the House budget for Chapter 70, but $101,000 less than the Governor's budget, released in January.

 However, the modest increase in local aid is tempered by a dramatic cut to

New memorials in time for Memorial Day

Memorial Day services at 11:30 a.m., Wildwood Cemetery

BY JAYNE W. MILLER
 WILMINGTON - Sometimes it takes the actions of a child to bring the needs of those around us into sharp relief.
 Ryan Carroccino, a Wilmington Middle School student, embarked on a journey to honor Wilmington's veterans, and the project is complete just in time for Memorial Day.
 Veteran's Agent and Selectman, Lou Cimaglia, has long wanted to see replacement of the 30 crosses and the single Star of David in the Veterans' Lot of Wildwood Cemetery. The current aluminum markers date to the late 1950's and early 1960's and are the same size and shape as those in the American Cemeteries in Normandy, France.

 Carroccino spoke to Cimaglia seeking ideas for a service project he could perform as part of his membership on the National Junior Honor Society, and he accepted the task of raising money to replace the markers.

 Carroccino contacted local businesses, individuals, and organizations to reach his goal. In the end, this middle school student raised just under $30,000.
 Clair Troy, a widow of WWII Army Veteran Joseph Troy, made special covers to keep the new crosses under wraps until the special unveiling ceremony as part

A look back at Wilmington of yesteryear...

The Silver Lake Volunteer Fire Department

By CAPT. LARZ NEILSON
 WILMINGTON - Through the years, the Town Crier has published many stories about volunteer fire departments. One of the best was the Silver Lake Volunteer Fire Department. It was in operation from about 1920 to 1926.

In the early 1920s, there were two trucks at the Wilmington Fire Station on Church Street. One was a Ford, and the other was known as the Reo. Both had been built by members of the Wilmington Fire Department, on a Ford and a Reo chassis.

It was two miles to Silver Lake, and many homes were farther yet. The Wildcat Railroad ran several trains a day, which could block the fire engines. Among the pine trees at Silver Lake, there were many cottages, and a fire could travel quickly. So the men of Silver Lake decided to do something about it — they formed a volunteer fire department.

The got the town to transfer an old horse-drawn hand-pump, and it was stored in a shed owned by Christian Neilson. "Pop" Neilson, as he was known, always had horses, one of which could supply the needed traction when necessary.

Harry Miller was the captain, and Al Spaulding was assistant captain. Harry, 34-years old, was a good steady

"This is another example of Wilmington giving back to our Veterans," said Selectman Mike Champoux.

"He's gone above and beyond. I suspect a lot of kids are like Ryan."

The Wildwood Cemetery services will take place 30 minutes later than in previous years, now at 11:30 a.m., in an effort to encourage more people to participate.

The Memorial Day parade begins at 10:00 a.m. at the Market Basket Plaza on Main Street.

needs to be used for Wednesday's treatment at three-quarters of a gallon per acre. Further, the DPW plans to treat 15 acres, or mainly just the outer ring of the lake.

"We are very optimistic that by treating on Wednesday we will be able to skip next year and continue to monitor in the fall and spring," said Magaldi.

Magaldi says fishermen have told him that the lake has better visibility and that the wildlife is abundant, recently spying a two-and-a-half pound bass.

"The clarity of the lake is the best in years," he added.

Selectmen offered praise to Magaldi for the 90 percent reduction in the weed in one year.

"Getting ahead of the curve was key," said Selectman Michael Newhouse.

"Jamie took the bull by the horns, so to speak, and has done a great job," said Town Manager Michael Cairra.

"This is an example of inter-departmental cooperation between the DPW, the Conservation Commission, the Recreation Commission, and this board, which was very involved initially."

The project, Cairra pointed out, was solely funded and coordinated by the town.

worker at the Apollo Chocolate factory in Sullivan Square, Charlestown. Sometimes he brought home small boxes of candy, and the neighbors' kids thought he was an all-right guy. He was a teetotaler, and very dependable.

Harry lived in a small house off a lane that is today called Miller Road. Al Spaulding lived on Mass. Avenue.

Silver Lake was a thriving area, especially in the summertime. There were a few farms. There were two ice houses at the lake, one of which was falling to pieces.

It's Your Money

by Joyce Brisbois

CHILD CARE AND TAXES

Many fortunate parents have TWO choices when it comes to child-care costs: They may pay these expenses via their company's flexible spending account, OR they can claim a dependent-care credit on the tax return. Which is the better deal?

Far and away, the spending account. The money you put into an FSA is subtracted from your paycheck BEFORE any taxes are calculated - including the 7.65-percent Social Security and Medicare taxes. Whatever your tax bracket, the savings are worthwhile on the maximum $5,000 in your FSA. Add in savings on your state taxes, too. If your expenses are high, you may use the credit as well.

If you don't have a flexible spending account arrangement at work, then it makes sense to take advantage of the child-care tax credit. You can take a credit for 20 to 35 percent of up to $3,000 in child-care expenses for one child, up to $6,000 for two or more, but there are income limitations on how much you can get.

What's the best way to save on your taxes? Talk it over with the knowhow people at

And there were a lot of small homes.

Many of those small homes depended on the kitchen stove for heat in the wintertime. There wasn't enough money to buy coal, all the time.

The old Union Ice House, up off Grove Avenue, was falling to pieces. It was a huge place. There had been 17 ice houses on four acres, each four stories high. The ice houses were rough buildings, with double plank walls. No parking areas had to be assigned in those days. The ice houses took up all the ground.

During those cold winters in the late teens and early twenties, the ice houses slowly disappeared into those kitchen stoves. Many a family did not have to buy coal as a result. They probably couldn't have paid for the coal anyway. By 1922, there were no ice houses left, just some timbers sticking up out of the ground, and four acres or so of the sawdust that had been used for insulation in the walls of those buildings.

Those sawdust piles provided some occasional excitement in the middle of the summer. In the hot, humid air of July and August, the sawdust would ignite from spontaneous combustion.

For a while, the Wilmington

Fire Department would go up and put the fires out, but the boys finally got wise and let the piles burn, as long as no one was in danger. So on Sundays, the Silver Lake Volunteer Fire Department would go over and put out the fires, using the old hand pumper. It took four men on each side to run the pump, but with a little cooperation, there could be as many as eight to a side.

Those Sunday trips provided sort of an excursion for the men at Silver Lake. And there was pay, from the town. If the writer remembers correctly, they were paid 25 cents an hour, while fighting the fires.

Claude Thompson was the treasurer, and Peter Neilson was the clerk. There were other people, of course. Paul Flagg belonged to the department for a while. He was a carpenter. To mention a few more, there was Richard Johns, an iron worker, and Walter Ellsworth. He was the World War I veteran for whom the local VFW post was named. He was an expression, and lived on Glen Road near Cypress Street.

Among others was Leon Southmayd, a mechanically minded man who always must have been wondering where the next 50 cents was coming from, for he had about 10 or 12 children. And there was Elmore Howe, an electrician and a quiet man, who lived on Cottage Street. And there was Guilford Palmer, a plumber, a small, intense and wiry man.

Also to be mentioned is Christian "Pop" Neilson. "Pop" had to be a member of the organization - he owned the horse. He never went out to fight fires, though, and the other members of the department understood. "Pop" was probably the oldest member.

The Silver Lake Volunteer Fire Department didn't just fight fires. It also became a social organization. It ran whist parties, in members' homes and elsewhere. A ticket cost, if memory serves correctly, 25 cents. There were three prizes and a consolation prize. The first prize was generally a turkey. Those whist parties generally took place on a Friday evening, about once a month.

The money, if there was any left over, went into the treasury of the SLVFD. It was not used to buy equipment, though, for the town had pro-

The thought behind the gift

Dear Friends,
We can't begin to express what your generosity means to our family. The money is most definitely helpful and will go to extremely good use, there's no doubt about that. But more than the monetary value, we so greatly appreciate the thought behind the gift. Illness is a burden but your actions have really lightened the load. For that especially, we thank you.
This time has been difficult for us, but knowing we have the support of people like you certainly helps. Please know we won't forget your kind gestures.

We'd like to extend a special thank you to Karen Poisson, Kim Griffin and the rest of the volunteers both for your kindness and the time and effort that you put into making Kim's benefit such a huge success.

Thank you again from the bottom of our hearts.

A much anticipated tradition at WHS is the annual senior promenade, where hundreds of parents, friends and family members gather to view a procession of gorgeous young couples festooned in elegant formalwear. The members of the WHS PAC gratefully acknowledge Mr. Peter K. Stone (Representative to Imperial Council) of the Shriners' Auditorium and wish to publicly thank him for his gracious offer to hold our event at the Shriners' facility. His help in preparing the auditorium for the promenade is greatly appreciated. Also, a very special thank you to Ellen Kline for emceeding this event, she did an excellent job, and to Christine Carter for decorating the trellis so beautifully.

As co-chairs of the event, we would like to personally thank the following individuals for their commitment in providing set-up, decoration, supervision and support - the presence of which ensured a memorable event for the Senior Class. We apologize if we inadvertently omit anyone.

TMHS Students Confront Destructive Lifestyles Weeding out the Truth from the Myths

Member of SADD

Ask anyone who smokes marijuana why they do it. A typical answer might be that they do it because it helps them relax, or they are drawn to it because of peer pressure, which may lead to it becoming a social obligation; whenever they're with a certain group of people they pick up that habit.

Now ask those same people if they know any of the harmful effects smoking marijuana can produce. Consuming marijuana can induce effects that alter and damage brain cells that control thinking, emotion, pleasure, coordination, mood, and memory, and that's just the beginning. Marijuana use also affects the heart rate, the Endocrine System, the Reproductive System for males and females, and the Central Nervous System.

So, what exactly is marijuana anyway? Marijuana is a drug made from the plant Cannabis Sativa. The main mind-altering ingredient in marijuana is THC (delta-9-tetrahydrocannabinol), but more than 400 other chemicals are also included in the plant. The amount of THC in the marijuana determines how strong its effects will be. Other factors that determine the strength of marijuana include: the type of plant, the weather, the soil, and the time of harvest.

Some immediate effects of marijuana include: a faster heartbeat and pulse rate, bloodshot eyes, and a dry mouth and throat. Studies of marijuana's mental effects show that the drug can impair or reduce short-term memory, alter sense of time, and reduce the ability to do things which require concentration, such as driving a car or operating machinery.

People can become psychologically dependent on marijuana, especially the long-term users. They may have a hard time limiting their use, and they may need more of the drug to get the same effect, which may develop problems with their jobs, and create a strain on personal relationships. Sadly, the drug can become the most important aspect of their lives.

A one major concern about marijuana is its possible effects on young people. Research shows that the earlier people start using drugs, the more likely they are to go on, to experiment with other drugs. When young people start using marijuana regularly, they often lose interest quickly and are not motivated to do their best in school. The effects of marijuana can interfere with learning by impairing thinking, reading comprehension, and verbal and mathematical skills. In addition, research all shows that students do not remember what they have learned when they are "high."

A recent study has been found that smoking marijuana can in fact cause cancer. The study found examination of human lung tissue that had been exposed to marijuana smoke over a long period of time showed cellular changes called metaplasia, which are considered to be precancerous. These studies suggest that it is likely that marijuana may cause cancer if used for a number of years.

Lastly, it is very important to educate your children since they are more likely to be pressured into drug use. Parents - don't be afraid to talk to your kids about drug use frequently; it could save their lives.

James Sudsbury Wilmington WWII Veteran remembered this Memorial Day

By JOEL HAGGERTY

In September of 1940, James Sudsbury of Wilmington and Paul Haggerty of Woburn met for the first time at the Woburn National Guard Armory. They were the only men in the office at that time to enlist for what would be a tragic ending for one of them.

The recruits soon became friends in joining the Yankee Division and training commenced at Camp Edwards in Bourne, Mass. in January of 1941. After a brief stay at Camp Edwards the men were sent south to participate in the Carolina Maneuvers.

Arriving back from Maneuvers on December 6th, 1941, neither of the young men were suspect of the plans that were underway by the Japanese. The next day December 7th, the attack on Pearl Harbor surprised the nation and the Army was fast into action. Soon after Sudsbury and Haggerty were on a motor transport to New York City to board ships to the Pacific via the Panama Canal.

Traveling to the south Pacific was a dangerous course for the U.S. as the Japanese Imperial Navy had the most advanced submarine fleet in the world at that time. U.S. Naval commanders could not travel in a straight line, but would use naval tactics in their course knowing what was out to destroy them in the depths of the ocean.

Going into action, Company B, 101st Quartermasters of the Yankee Division was divided into two platoons. Each platoon was deployed on separate ships and the two friends parted. Soon after, they arrived at a South Pacific Island for what would become known as "The Battle of Guadalcanal" and the first major offense against the Empire of Japan.

As the Quartermaster Division for the Army, both ships were fully loaded with troops and supplies for the battle. The two ships were within eyesight of each other and only minutes from the Island of Guadalcanal when a torpedo from a Japanese mini-sub struck one of the ships.

The supplies and men had to get to their destination and Sudsbury's ship was forced to be beached while engulfed in flames. Unfortunately Quartermaster Sudsbury, was blown overboard by the explosion of the Japanese torpedo.

Haggerty inside the other ship heard the explosion and the platoon scrambled topside to climb overboard onto rope ladders into landing crafts to reach the beach. At the same time U.S. war ships were circling around them and launching depth chargers in pursuit of the Japanese sub.

Upon arriving at Guadalcanal, Haggerty met with other surviving platoon members and was told of what had happened to his friend. In sadness, he realized the war had really begun for Company B.

For three more years the members of Company B of the 101st Quartermaster, Yankee Division, now the Americal Division, battled their way across the South Pacific remembering each of their comrades who made the ultimate sacrifice.

But for James Sudsbury the war and cold waters of the Pacific did not end his being. In honor of their friend, for years, the men of Company B who lived locally would assemble on Thanksgiving morning with James's family at St. Thomas's Villanova Church in Wilmington for mass. Afterward Mrs. Sudsbury would invite them to her home for coffee where she would always refer to them as "my boys, my boys."

This is but one of the many stories of our heroes who have unselfishly served in the Armed Forces. Let us remember them this Memorial Day.

Editors note:

Paul Haggerty went on to become the Publisher of Woburn Daily Times, which owns the Wilmington Town Crier. He can still be seen locally shopping at Lucci's with his wife Ruth who also befriended James Sudsbury.

An Ice Cream Shoppe arrives in Wilmington

K&A Cones opens in Wilmington Crossing

WILMINGTON - From the owner of Kendra & Anthony's Hand-Crafted Pizza, which celebrates its two year anniversary this month, Joe Prezioso is bringing ice cream to Wilmington. K&A Cones is now open at Wilmington Crossing (211 Main Street) from noon - 10 p.m. daily.

K&A Cones is offering ice cream, ice cream and more ice cream! Prezioso says: "It's all about having choices when it comes to quality ice cream and our goal is to provide every option possible."

K&A Cones has over 60 flavors of super premium hard ice cream, soft serve ice cream, 95% fat-free yogurt, low-fat no sugar added ice cream, sherbet, sorbet, slush and a large selection of hand-dipped cones. Also, K&A Cones is offering custom made ice cream cakes, from small cakes for that great surprise dessert for the family to large cakes for special occasions. There are cakes available daily for walk-in purchase, but when ordered in advance customers can create, from the inside out, the perfect ice cream cake for each event.

Prezioso wants to provide Wilmington and the surrounding areas with a destination spot for ice cream, where you can sit outside on those bright summer days and cheer up those dreary days relaxing inside at the playful and sunny indoor seating. K&A Cones is a place where everyone in the family will find something they like, where teams can convene after hard-won victories, lick their wounds after well-fought defeat and where a sudden ice cream urge can be filled in seconds.

K&A Cones, like Kendra & Anthony's Hand-Crafted Pizza, is named after Joe's daughter Kendra and son Anthony, who happen to be fans of both pizza and ice cream!

Tewksbury resident's piano concert June 13

CHELMSFORD

Tewksbury resident Cynthia Bliss shares favorite music from her youth and the stories behind it in a piano concert on Sunday, June 13, at 4 p.m. at First Parish Unitarian Universalist Church, Chelmsford. Among Mrs. Bliss's favorite pieces are shorter works by Bach, Mozart, Schumann, Chopin, and Debussy. She describes the program as perfect for anyone who has ever been a piano student (including current students), or knows someone who has studied the piano, as it will offer a fresh perspective on familiar music. The concert will last approximately one hour.

Cynthia Bliss started studying music as a small child. As a high school student, she studied piano with Vivian Taylor and Gary Chapman at Atlantic Union College, and then with Paula Fern as an undergraduate at Smith College (before transitioning to the organ). Mrs. Bliss is currently Music Director at First Parish Unitarian Universalist Church in Chelmsford, co-chair of the Early Childhood department and staff accompanist at Indian Hill Music School in Littleton, and accompanist of the Northern Essex Community College Choir in Haverhill.

All proceeds from the concert go towards the purchase of a third octave of hand bells for First Parish's bell choir. The church is located at 2 Westford Street, on the Common in Chelmsford.

In Loving memory of Richard A. Lojek

1/4/51 - 5/27/04

You can shed tears that he is gone or you can smile because he has lived.
You can close your eyes and pray that he'll come back or you can open your eyes and see all he's left.
Your heart can be empty because you can't see him or you can be full of the love you shared.
You can turn your back on tomorrow and live yesterday or you can be happy for tomorrow because of yesterday.
You can remember him and only that he's gone or you can cherish his memory and let it live on.
You can cry and close your mind, be empty and turn your back

Or you can do what he'd want: smile, open your eyes, love and go on
I love you Richie and always will - I did in life, in death I do still
All my love, Karen

Eight members of the Junior Youth Group of Tewksbury Congregational Church recently took part in a Food Pantry Scavenger Hunt. The group was divided into three teams, assigned to an adult driver, and given a list of items to find and request from Tewksbury residents. After three hours, the groups reported to their check-in point, where they sorted and bagged their groceries. Here, the teens display some of the items they were able to collect - which were enough to fill the back of a small pickup truck - and donate to the Tewksbury Food Pantry.

Malden Catholic students inducted into National Honor Society

MALDEN - More than fifty Malden Catholic students were recently inducted into the Brother Gilbert Chapter of the National Honor Society. The National Honor Society (NHS) was established in 1921 and is a recognition program for American high school students who exhibit extraordinary achievement in scholastics, service, and character.

Malden Catholic students become eligible for National Honor Society if they are in the top 15 percent of their class and/or have achieved a cumulative average of 88 percent or better. Those who qualify are notified of their eligibility and are invited to apply. Students apply for membership by providing data attesting to their character, leadership potential and service. Applications are reviewed and voted on by a faculty selection committee.

Sophomores Colin Arbuckle and Andrew Medeiros, both of Wilmington, were named to National Honor Society at Malden Catholic.

During the induction ceremony, more than ninety current members of the honor society renewed their membership. The evening's guest speaker was Malden Catholic Chair of the Social Studies Department Brother Timothy Hoey, CFX. The senior officers of the organization spoke about the qualities of the society: NHS president Joseph Guilan spoke on leadership, Vice President Sean Sweeney spoke on service, Treasurer Joseph Bourque spoke on scholarship, and Secretary Michael O'Rourke spoke on character.

Montalto graduates with honors

DUDLEY - Nichols College 2010 graduation ceremony was held Saturday, May 8, on its campus in Dudley, MA. Alexander M. Montalto of Wilmington received a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree, with the honor designation of cum laude.

The Commencement Speaker was U.S. Senator Scott P. Brown. His advice to graduates: "You will never regret giving your all to a great endeavor, whether it's running for office or volunteering for an organization that makes a difference, raising a family or running the Boston Marathon. If the cause is worthy, and the effort honorable, then the only failure is never to try at all."

Other addresses were made by Valedictorian Gloria D. Harvey of North Grosvenordale, CT and Senior Class President Kristin Marie Andrews of Spencer, MA.

In addition, there were two honorary degree recipients: Dominic Charles Varisco received posthumously a Doctor of Business Administration and Senator Scott P. Brown received a Doctor of Public Administration.

354 degrees were conferred, as follows: 13 Associate in Business Administration, 16 Bachelor of Arts, 251 Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, 68 Master in Business Administration, six Master of Organizational Leadership.

Undergraduate academic honor designations are based upon the cumulative quality point average earned as of March 25, 2010. Honors status may change as a result of spring semester grade performance. Candidates earning the distinction of Honors were recognized by wearing a gold cord.

-Summa Cum Laude (Cumulative grade point average 3.8-4.0)

-Magna Cum Laude (Cumulative grade point average 3.6-3.79)

-Cum Laude (Cumulative grade point average 3.2-3.59)

Nichols College strives to develop tomorrow's leaders through a dynamic, career-focused business education. Founded in 1815 in Dudley, MA, the College's business program is paralleled by a comprehensive program in teacher preparation and liberal arts. On the graduate level, Nichols offers a Master of Business Administration and Master of Organizational Leadership.

Tewksbury Library Notes

The Book Nook: Great reads at the library

TEWKSBURY - Have you ever dreamed of working in a candy store and sampling the chocolate goodies all day long? What about an ice cream shop and tasting every flavor offered? If you worked at the Tewksbury Public Library, would you be able to read every book on the shelf? Hardly. You would, however, see the new titles that the library purchases every month. How then does a library employee decide what books to read? Just think: with over 5,000 titles on the shelf, what are those ladies reading? Recently, library clerks Joanne and Helen spoke at the Ladies' Aid meeting at the Tewksbury Congregational Church and tried to answer that question of "What do we read?"

Helen, a retired school teacher, recommends the novel Rebecca by Daphne du Maurier. Quick, what is the opening line of the novel? No answers will be given in this column, but you all know it. In one stroke, du Maurier establishes the voice, the setting, and the dream-like atmosphere of the story. If you are stumped, you need not fear. We have copies of the book at the library. Rebecca is a novel of mystery, passion, secrets, betrayal and lost love. The book is impossible to put down.

Rebecca has been described as a Cinderella story, but with the central character being helped from rags to riches by an older man that marries her rather than the more traditional help of a fairy godmother. The novel is considered the first major gothic romance in the twentieth century. Helen felt that reading the novel in her sixties as compared to reading it in her twenties gave her a rather different perspective. She does not want to add any more information for fear of spoiling the ending. And after you finish the book, check out the Academy-awarding winning film version, directed by Alfred Hitchcock.

Helen also has high praise for Dirty Blonde, a courtroom drama, by Lisa Scottoline. Although the novel tackles some controversial subjects, the tone is more humorous. The action is fast paced; the plot keeps you guessing at the truth, and makes you rethink some ideas and beliefs about today's society. Scottoline's books fly off the shelf. Patrons say they are 'unput-downable.' This word, though not in the dictionary, was inspired by a member of our book discussion group. Pick up one of her books, and let us know what you think.

Joanne, a talented cook and lover of mysteries, loves the delectable culinary mystery series by Diane Mott Davidson featuring Colorado caterer, Goldy Schulz. Currently there are fifteen books in the series. The latest, Fataally Flakey, is on the shelf now. Besides trying to solve a mystery, great recipes are included in the books. Reading these books will definitely make you hungry. Check with Joanne to see what recipes she has cooked up in her kitchen. Although the books in the series do not have to be read in order, it is fun to see the characters evolving, relationships changing, and new challenges being met. These books are a fun, light read. Joanne wants everyone to know she will gladly taste test any of the goodies our patrons want to whip up in their kitchens.

The other series Joanne recommends is Cape Light by well-known painter Thomas Kinkade. Based in a small seashore town in New England, the characters are so believable that they seem like people you know. The stories are uplifting. Popular titles include Home Song and A New Leaf. If Joanne didn't live in Tewksbury, she would want to reside in Cape Light. Kinkade has painted with words a series to enjoy.

Save the date of Wednesday, July 21 for Criminal Minds: An Evening with Hank Phillippi Ryan. How does an Emmy-winning reporter become a best-selling author of fast-paced murder mysteries? And how does a just-the-facts journalist adds mystery fiction to her resume? Hank Phillippi Ryan will talk about mixing the worlds of fact and fiction, her career that goes from radio reporter to Rolling Stone Magazine to the US Senate to undercover investigations -- the obstacles and the rewards, the challenges as a newbie reporter in 1971, as well as the challenges of an experienced senior reporter when the focus is on youth and beauty. Hank's newest mystery Drive Time is already getting rave reviews, and Air Time (published in 2009) was nominated for the prestigious Agatha Award for Best Mystery.

The Tewksbury Public Library Book Discussion Group will be reading Drive Time for one of its upcoming meetings. Just a reminder, the Book Club meets on the last Tuesday of the month at 6:30 p.m. or the last Thursday of the month at 10:15 a.m. Our meetings are informal. No registration is required. You can pick up a copy of this month's read at the front desk. Just drop in and give your thoughts and opinions. We look forward to seeing you at the meeting. If you have any questions, call Joanne or Helen at 978-640-4490.

Local residents graduate from St. John's Prep

DANVERS - St. John's Preparatory School held its 100th Commencement exercises on Sunday, May 23 at 11:00 a.m. Headmaster Albert J. Shannon, Ph.D. awarded diplomas to 305 seniors including Tewksbury residents Evan Harry Goldsher and Brendan John McBrine as well as

Wilmington resident Sean Patrick Callahan during an outdoor ceremony held on the school's campus. Also, Goldsher, McBrine and Callahan gained membership into the National Honor Society. In his remarks, Dr. Shannon praised the graduates for all they had achieved during their years at St. John's. He challenged them to put their talents to work for others. "You each have the capacity to use your gifts as gifts for someone else. Give a piece of yourself in a compassionate way to someone less fortunate; then, you will know that you are a son of Xavier, a son of St. John's."

Michael Leonard of Salem, a member of the Religious Studies Department faculty, delivered the Commencement address. Leonard, who began his career at St. John's in 2003, teaches Social Justice and Western Philosophy.

Founded in 1907, St. John's is an independent, Xaverian Brothers sponsored secondary school for young men in grades 9 through 12. With a century-long tradition of excellence in academics, arts and athletics, St. John's is recognized for a rigorous college preparatory curriculum that emphasizes academic achievement, spiritual development, leadership and commitment to Christian service. Located on a 175-acre campus in Danvers, Massachusetts, St. John's draws students from more than 90 communities.

Wilmington Safety Officer Brian Moon and Traffic Officer Brian Gillis were at the Woburn Street School on Tuesday to talk to students about bicycle safety. They gave away four new bicycles and 20 helmets during the two-session program. The winners, whose names were picked from a hat, were (front l-r): Leah Nelson and Samuel Cedrone won the bicycles and (helmet winners l-r): Akaila Vokey, Sophia Novak, Jenna Tavanese, Joseph Hartzell, Gianna Zaccagnini, Matthew O'Connell, Leah Stalker, Jimmy McCarron, Harry Walsh and Omar Eldaly with Brian Gillis, Principal Joel Sanderson and Brian Moon. permits for parking and other matters related to the production of the program. The Mastropietro family of Denault Drive is the focus of the episode.

According to observers, the wedding of a daughter in the family was filmed at Tewksbury Country Club last week. TCC owner Marc Ginsburg confirmed Michaels was on site for the event and praised the host, directors, and the entire production crew for being, "sensitive to the nuptials, and yet they got their job done."

"Overall it was a beautiful wedding of over 200 guests, the weather was great and the Mastropietro family were a pleasure to deal with and also looked great," commented Ginsburg.

"Losing It With Jillian Michaels" is a new NBC television series that will feature Michaels, the well known fitness trainer from the popular television show "The Biggest Loser" as she helps unhealthy families turn around their lives while Chef Curtis Stone helps with proper nutrition.

According to information released by the production company, each week Michaels "invades" a different family to give them "her own characteristic brand of tough love." She will get to the bottom of the issues each family member faces that affect health and happiness - and "arm them with the tools necessary to make life-altering changes."

Celebrity chef Curtis Stone joins Michaels in the program and helps rid the family's kitchen of unhealthy foods and educates them on proper nutrition, healthy ingredients, cooking tips, and recipes.

"This show is a very positive show," said Palombo in March, commenting that positivity is not always the case for a reality series. "We are trying to help this family."

Kendra Burke and Kayla Merola stopped at the Wildwood School on their way to work Friday and bought a lemonade from Alex's Lemonade Stand. Children who attend the Wildwood School's after-school C.A.R.E.S (Children's Arts, Recreation & Enrichment Services) program had the idea to run an Alex's Lemonade Stand as a vehicle for raising funds toward researching a cure for childhood cancer. members. Many past Grand Knights from throughout the history of the council were also present at the ceremony. The past Grand Knights received embroidered caps with a designation of their status and their term of office.

The Knights received letters commending their golden anniversary from people such as Archbishop of Boston Sean O'Malley and Supreme Knight Carl Anderson.

The evening's Master of Ceremonies was Harry Cunningham, a member of the council. The invocation was made by Reverend Kevin Horrigan, pastor of St. Dorothy's Church. He recently celebrated his fortieth year as a priest and he received a gift from the Knights honoring his achievement.

Louis Cimaglia led the Pledge of Allegiance and Krista Angelucci, the great granddaughter of the first Grand Knight, sang the National Anthem. Local selectmen Michael Champoux, Michael Newhouse and State Representative James Miceli all spoke during the event.

The current Grand Knight, Raymond Mercuri, Jr., Reverend Charles Hughes and State Deputy William Donovan also addressed the audience. Hughes is a former chaplain of the council and was assigned to St. Thomas Parish from 1985 to 1991. Al MacMullin presented the awards and Reverend Patrick Healey made the benediction. Kenneth Michaud played Taps in honor of the deceased members.

The meal lasted approximately two hours, allowing guests to chat and recall past accomplishments and memories.

"It went well," said charter member Al MacMullin. "People were pretty pleased with the meal and the decorations."

Members of the Knights of Columbus will be marching in the upcoming Memorial Day parade.

Senate Budget proposes cuts to schools education funding. The Senate ways and means budget proposes a 25 percent reduction in grants in early childhood education for full day kindergarten programs. For Wilmington, if adopted by the statehouse, it means a $43,000 reduction in the full day Kindergarten grant.

More dramatic, however, is the estimated drop in the Circuit Breaker reimbursement, which would amount to a $249,000 cut. The Circuit Breaker funds costs that exceed foundation formula benchmarks for special needs children.

"We depend on the circuit breaker funds to control costs for out-of-district tuitions," Superintendent Joanne Benton told the Crier Tuesday.

Circuit breaker funds support the costs of some of the neediest students in the system; costs that the school district has the least control over. Benton notes that these children cannot be moved back into the system because the district does not have the necessary programs.

"What it will mean, if it goes through, is supplies and non-salary items will all be affected," continued Benton. "Either reduced, or cut."

Benton added that she is not clear on the rationale for the cuts to early and special education by the Senate Ways and Means.

Caira, known for his conservative budgeting, assures residents that "We're going to be okay." His initial estimate for Chapter 70 funding for FY2011 was just $8,782,500. Town Meeting eventually adopted $9,758,342 in its budget, which is still $445,000 less than what the Senate is proposing to allocate to Wilmington.

"We are going to be okay,"

Caira told the Crier, noting that the appropriation for the high school feasibility study will come out of existing funds and will not require a borrowing.

Likewise, the Kindergarten program will remain intact, despite the potential $43,000 cut.

"The town is still committed to tuition-free full-day Kindergarten," finished Caira.

Koch named Company of the Year

WILMINGTON - Koch Membrane Systems, Inc. a world-class developer and manufacturer of innovative membranes and membrane filtration systems, was honored as the Water Technology Company of the Year-2010 by the International Desalination Association.

KMS was recognized for its ongoing commitment to innovation in the membrane industry as demonstrated by its large diameter MegaMagnum reverse osmosis (RO) products, and Puro® ultrafiltration (UF) membranes, used for membrane bioreactors.

"We are very pleased to accept this award, which recognizes our success and the difficult task of driving technology change in this market," said David H. Koch, president of Koch Membrane Systems. "Our commitment to MegaMagnum® elements, pressure vessels, and systems allowed KMS to truly revolutionize RO and drive overall installed costs down. We have invested heavily over the last 10 years, developing outstanding technologies, improving our manufacturing capabilities and hiring world-class talent in all areas to create a company of enormous potential."

The award recognizes the company that has made the most significant contribution in the field of water technology over the past year. It was presented at the Global Water Awards in Paris and voted on by International Desalination Association subscribers and members.

KMS received top honors for its commitment in the design, manufacturing, and commercialization of large diameter MegaMagnum elements and pressure vessels. The MegaMagnum elements greatly reduce the costs for RO systems by reducing building footprints, and increasing membrane area. Introduced to the market in 2004, MegaMagnum RO elements have become the industry standard, with more installed large diameter sites than any other membrane manufacturer. KMS' newly designed pressure vessels (patents pending) help make large diameter elements more economically attractive than the older 8 inch elements. To secure supply for the increasing demand in its large diameter RO, KMS invested in a new state-of-the-art, highly automated production line at its Wilmington, Mass., headquarters.

About Koch Membrane Systems

Koch Membrane Systems, Inc. is a global leader in membrane filtration technology and engineering support for close to half a century. KMS offers a wide range of products and engineering services which span industrial applications in food and life sciences, industrial processes and water & wastewater. As a designer and manufacturer of state-of-the-art membrane elements as well as complete membrane systems, KMS is specified for some of the most demanding applications. Cerbone's design will be used on the 2010 'Fun on the Fourth' T-shirts, sales of which brings in revenue to help pay for a spectacular fireworks display.

Burke makes WHS Tennis History

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Wilmington High senior Jessica Burke will be joining the rest of her classmates in the coming weeks in graduating from high school and moving onto the next phase of her life. But while Burke will no longer be a part of the student body at the school, the history she made as a member of the Wildcats girls tennis team will be remembered forever.

With her straight set win against Triton on May 17, Burke, the Wildcats No. 1 singles player, earned her 25th win of her career, accomplishing something that the Town Crier believes has only been done twice before in the history of the girls program, by Hall of Famer Lisa Cutone in the 1980s as well as Sara McMahon in the 1990s.

Burke finished her career with 28 wins after Tuesday's win over Newburyport. For Burke, a senior tri-captain for the Wildcats, putting herself in such elite company was a thrill she will always remember.

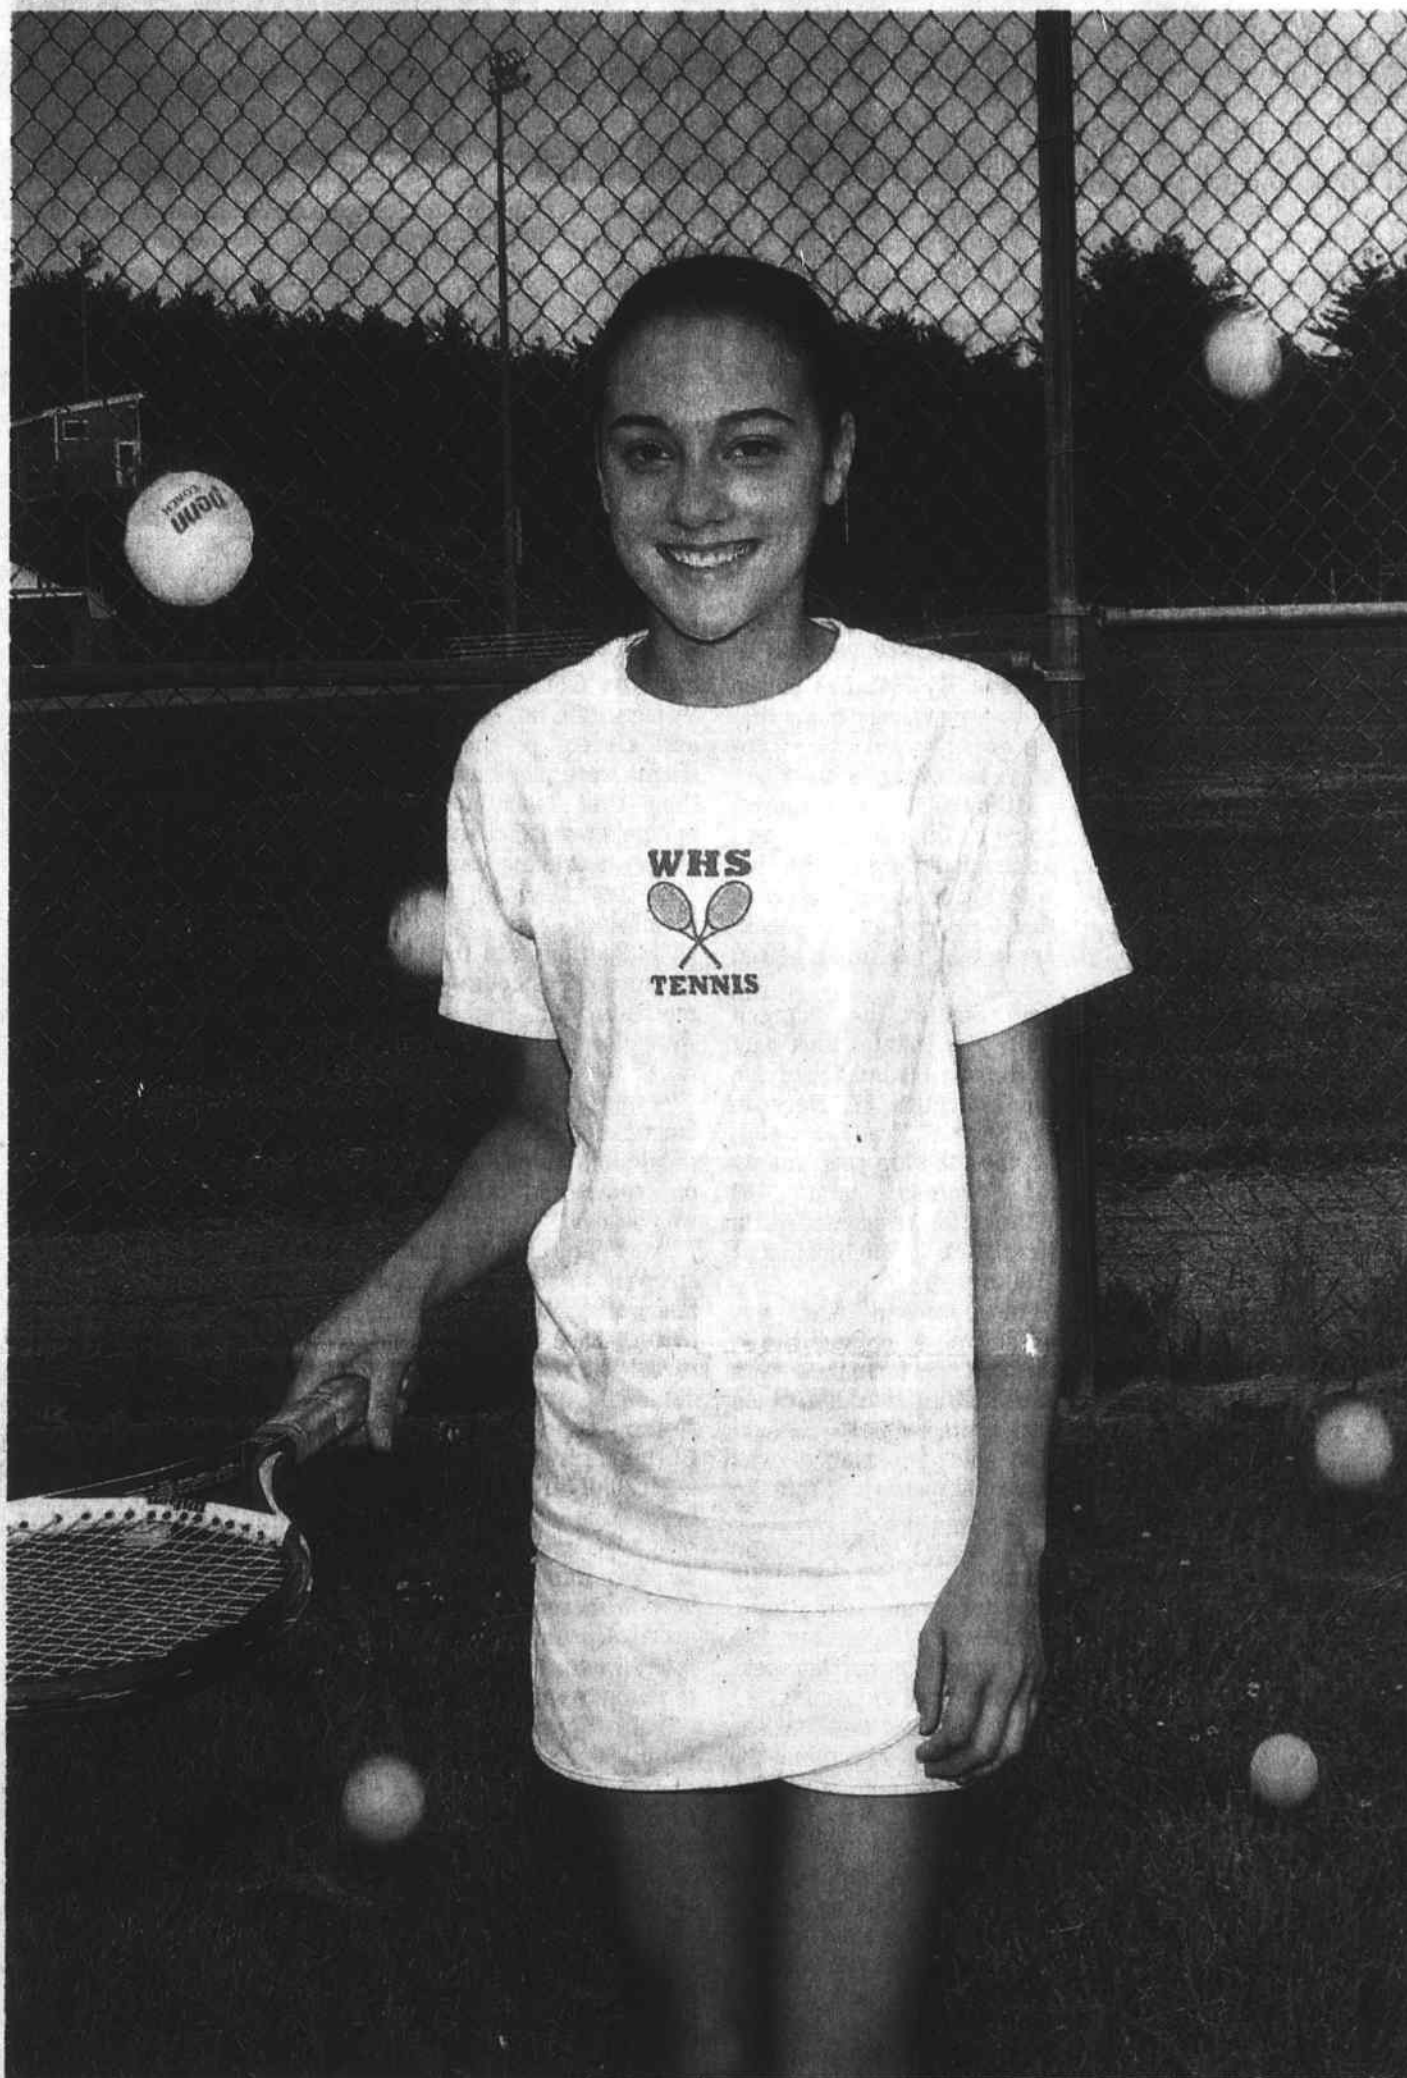

"It was just exciting. I was not even aware of it until coach (Kevin) Welch told me, but once I found out I was very excited to accomplish that," Burke said.

The 28 wins will of course be the highlight of Burke's accomplishments on the courts of Wilmington High, but they only tell part of the story. For there is also the story of how she improved every year, from being a third singles player in her sophomore year, to second singles in her junior year, to dominating her opposition in this, her final season with the Wildcats.

There is also the story of the leader she has become to her younger teammates on the court, displaying the work ethic and never say die mentality that every coach wants in a captain.

"This year Jess has matured a great deal as a tennis player," Welch said. "One of her strengths has always been the ability to outlast her opponents. She has always had great stamina. It has never been a problem for her to stay on the court two to three hours."

As much as her stamina has been a big help to her this year and throughout her career, Welch also pointed out that she has not needed quite as much staying power this year.

"This year she is not just outlasting opponents she is dominating her opponents," Welch said. "In the matches she has won she has only lost about 15 games in the final set."

Burke points to the experience she has gained in her three years with the varsity as one of the main reasons she has been so dominant this year.

"The past two years really helped me get ready for this year," Burke said. "I moved up a level last year and this year I am just hitting the same as always, but I am just doing better. My experience definitely helped me get ready for first singles."

Burke has also benefited from her ability to know her strengths and weaknesses as a player and has used that knowledge to help her defeat her opponents.

"At times I think she is a better coach than I am. She knows her strengths and she uses them well," Welch said. "She has the ability to use the first set of her match to develop her game plan. She does not get down if she loses games in the first set. She knows it is all part of the process of winning a match."

Burke added, "I know I am not one of the strongest players out there, so I have to adjust for that. After making several mistakes I have learned the best way for me to play to and to not beat myself."

Burke also credits Welch's coaching style as a big reason for her success this year and throughout her career.

"He has been great," Burke said. "Whenever I am struggling he helps calm me down and just reminds me to play to my strengths. I am not great under pressure, so his coaching style is really great for me because he always makes me feel relaxed."

Burke, who will attend Boston University next year as a Bio Medical Engineering major, will miss Welch as well

Terrific pitching the key for Baseball team's success

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The Wildcats received tremendous pitching this past week including 11 combined shut out innings by Michael Murphy and Sean Hanley, which then was followed by a tremendous performance by Evan Butters, who gave up one run over six innings. Yet despite giving up one run over 17 innings, Wilmington split the two games, beating Pentucket Regional, 2-0 in nine innings and then losing 1-0 to the 16-0 Masconomet Chieftains on Sunday afternoon.

"What can I say about last week," said head coach Aldo Caira. "We played three outstanding games. Unfortunately we were only able to win one of them, but I think we sent a message to the league and Division Two that we are for real."

In the win over Pentucket, Murphy threw the first eight shut out innings, giving up five hits, walking two and striking out six, and then was helped out by Hanley, who picked up his third win all in relief, tossing three shut out innings, giving up just two hits.

The game was scoreless until the top of the 11th when Hanley started the rally drawing a walk. Brett Meuse bunted him to second. Cole Peffer followed with the game winning RBI base hit to score Hanley, and then Evan Butters laced a double to score Peffer all the way from first for the much needed insurance run.

"Murphy was simply masterful," said Caira. "He hit his spots, kept their hitters off balance all day and at times just plain overpowered them. He gave us eight tremendous innings and then we get the luxury of bring in Sean Hanley. Sean was just as effective as Michael was and he was able to pick up the win in relief. Sean's now gone 15 innings in relief and still maintains a 0.00 ERA.

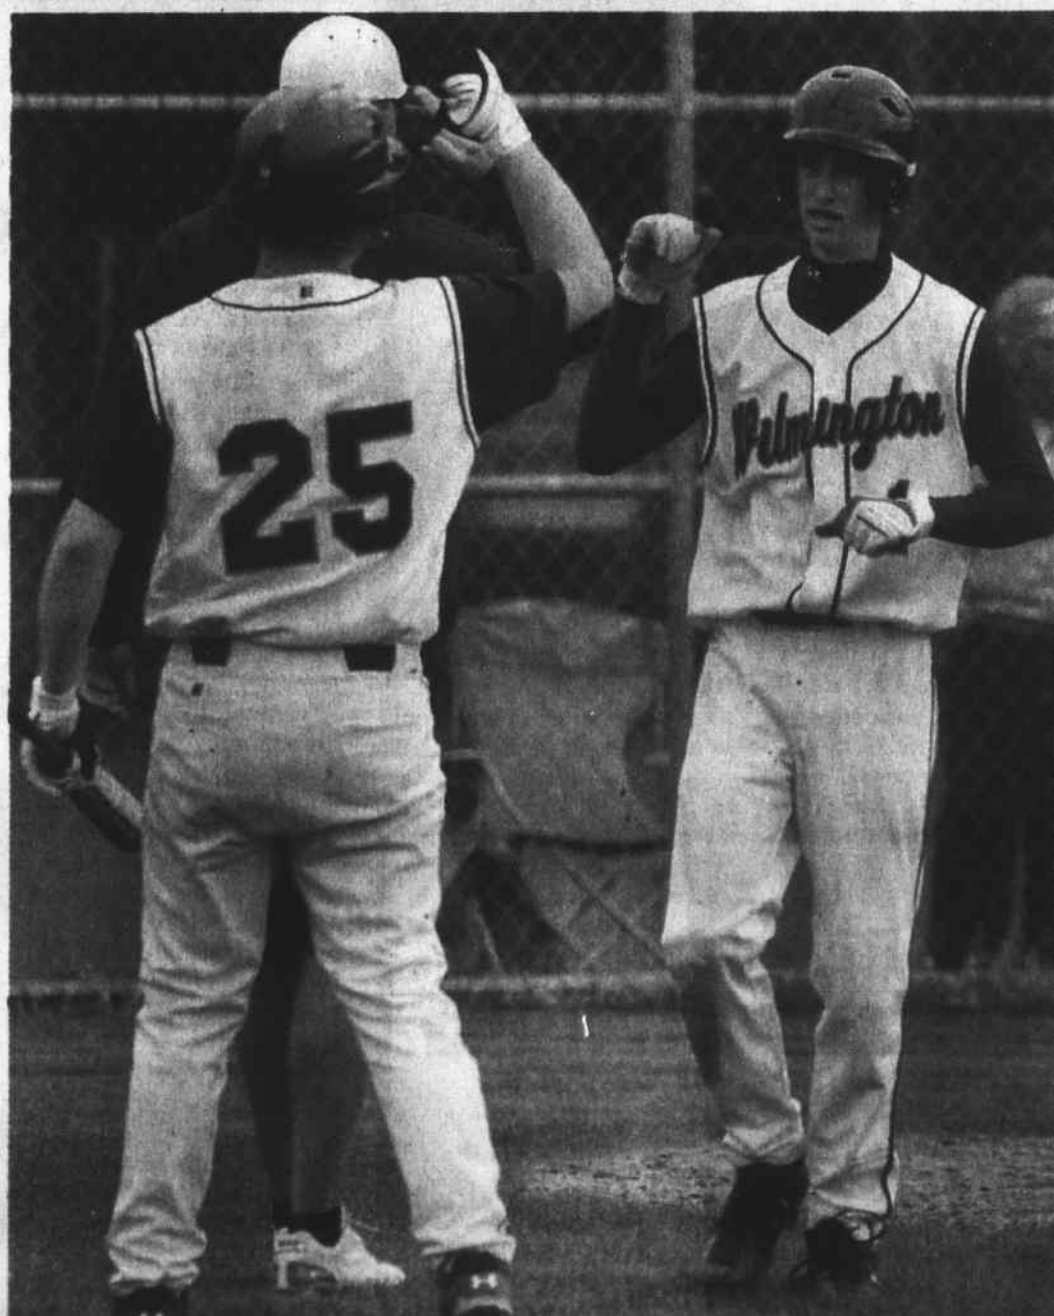

It's a good feeling for a coach to have when you have a lights out kind of guy to come in and finish games. He's now 3-0 with one save."

Pentucket did rally in the home half putting a runner on base but Butters made a nice shoestring catch, and doubled up the runner off first base to end the threat.

"The play of the game happened on the very last play," said Caira. "With one out and a runner on first the Pentucket hitter belted a sinking line drive to right field. It was one of those hero or goat kind of plays for Evan Butters because if the ball got by him both runners would have come around to tie up the game. But Evan came up big and made a spectacular shoe string catch and then threw a strike to first base to double off the runner and end the game."

Maher takes run on Fenway grass

By LAUREN SPENCER
Sports Correspondent

While the Red Sox were on the road last Sunday earning an 8-3 win over the Philadelphia Phillies, Wilmington resident, Lisa Maher, along with over 2,000 other participants, took advantage of the empty Fenway Park and raced in the Run to Home Plate 9K, raising $2.4 million for veterans of the war in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Maher, who works as a personal trainer at Boston Sports Club, enjoys running for fun, and started racing competitively last year. When her husband told her about the Run to Home Plate 9K, she thought it would be a good idea to run.

"I thought it was a good cause and I thought the excitement of being in Fenway Park would be a great experience," she said.

Organized by the Red Sox Foundation in partnership with Massachusetts General Hospital, the 9K road race raises money for The Home Base Program which helps men and women who have served in Iraq and Afghanistan and have suffered combat stress disorders and brain injuries. Participants were asked to raise $1,000 each, and through Facebook, e-mail, and word of mouth, Maher's fundraising exceeded that amount.

Beginning on Yawkey Way, Maher raced just about 5.6 miles through Boston, to the finish line: home plate in Fenway Park. While running is one of her hobbies, she said it was the cause that made this race stand apart from others.

"I just started running for fun," she said. "This is actually the first race I've run for a cause and it was good. It was really touching. There were a lot of 'thank-you's" in the crowd, so it really made it feel extra special."

As Maher's job has her familiar with running races, training for the race came easy to her. She said, "I just tried to up my mileage with running. I ran a couple of days a week and made sure I actually brought that in."

Maher finished with a time of 47 minutes and 10 seconds.

"I did better than I thought I would do. This is the furthest I've run. I've done five miles before, but this was 5.6, so this was a little bit more than what I've done."

Entertainment, food and other refreshments followed the race, and family and friends were allowed to go on the field watch the finish. Alongside her were friends and co-workers who had also run the race, as well as her family.

"Some people from work and some friends usually run," she said. "We run together but we're at different paces so we start off together and then meet up at the end."

With plans to run a few more road races this summer, and hopes to run it again next year, Maher enjoyed coming out for this particular race, and four other Wilmington residents could agree. John Kelley, age 38, finished with a time of 41:32. Kristen Emde, age 25, finished with a time of 55:51. Dotte Plouffe, age 33, finished with a time of 55:52, and Meaghan Doherty, age 20, finished with a time of 59:58.

The race also saw six Tewksbury finishers: Michael Mawn, Maura Kee, Christopher Bradley, Allyson Casey, Mark Moriconi, and Pamela Vetrano.

Spaniol's enjoy first road race together

By CHRIS RICCIARDI
Sports Correspondent

Shaun Spaniol has never run competitively in his life. He doesn't even enjoy running, according to his wife.

Although he has played hockey for decades and occasionally runs with his wife, Tracy, Shaun has never tied the laces on his sneakers to take part in an actual race.

On Sunday, he changed that. The Spanios took part in the sixth annual Exercise for Education 5K Race in Burlington. Tracy Spaniol, 32, took the top spot among all women and all Wilmington residents with a time of 20:46. She finished at 11th overall.

For someone who has never raced competitively, Shaun's performance was excellent. He took 20th place with a time of 21:53. He said that his experience was worth the effort it took to finish the race.

"It wasn't easy," Shaun Spaniol said. "I definitely enjoyed being out there. There was a big turnout. I'm not usually a big competition runner. I enjoyed it."

Tracy Spaniol said that she got a kick out of running the race with her husband, despite some early bantering between the two.

"I may have done a little bit of trash talking to my husband beforehand," Tracy Spaniol joked. "Winning is nice. I didn't think I could (finish first among the women), even for myself."

Besides racing with each other, the Spanios had another reason to take part in the Burlington 5K. They own the Get in Shape for Women gym in Burlington, and several of their gym clients were participating in their first marathon. The Spanios wanted to motivate members during the race, and they decided to run themselves.

The Spanios ran the race to "support, encourage, and motivate our clients who were also running their first race," according to Tracy. "We were trying to motivate our clients to do something they didn't think they could do, something other than weight loss."

Tracy Spaniol is not a stranger to road races. She has worked to improve her performance during these races. The results are pretty obvious, given Spaniol's stellar time during the Burlington race.

"Most of my training has been done at the gym we own," she said. "I have been working hard on the intervals to increase my overall speed. Up until about three months ago, I was running a ten-minute mile."

Tracy Spaniol graduated from Wakefield High School in 1995. Her husband graduated from Taconic High School in Pittsfield, MA, the same year. He spent most of his college years at SUNY Cortland, and he was a center on the hockey team. During his sophomore year, which was 1999-2000, Spaniol picked up three assists and a goal. He hasn't left the world of hockey, and he continues to play in a men's league.

Now that the Spanios have competed in their first road race with each other, they have planned to compete in several races upcoming.

"We have a few more races planned this summer with some of our clients," Tracy Spaniol said. "We are going to do the Take the Lake 5K in Wakefield in July along with the Get in Shape gym in Tewksbury, and we are signing up for a Spartan race in August, which was on the recommendation of one of our clients who just ran her first 5K with me in Melrose a few weeks ago. She also did the Burlington 5K, and now she is ready for a Spartan race."

Tracy Spaniol also said she can't for the next race with her husband, or round two of some light spirited trash talking.

"I really enjoyed running with my husband and can't wait to do more," she said.

Besides the Spanios, several other Wilmington residents performed well during the race. John Gorvin ran well as he took 14th place at 20:55. George Cronin had a decent performance, taking the 27th spot with a time of 23:03. Kaen McIntyre finished in 176th place with a time of 33:39. Emily Olson took 180th place at 33:58. Kathleen Gorvin placed at 246th overall with a time of 47:08. Jill Olson and Jean Olson took 294th and 296th place, respectively, at 55:03 and 55:05.

Taylor rides along the Charles

By CHRIS RICCIARDI
Sports Correspondent

As Wilmington native Tom Taylor rode along the Charles River while practicing for the Run of the Charles Race, he was able to observe some unknown sights of the Boston landscape. Of course, when it was time for the actual canoe/kayak race, Taylor didn't pay attention to the pristine landscape and focused on thrashing an oar into the crystal blue water of the river.

"We actually did a couple of practice runs," Taylor said. "I was able to see some parts of the Charles River that I haven't seen before."

The 28th Run of the Charles River race was held on April 25 by the Charles River Watershed Association, an association that "seeks to protect and enhance the health, beauty, and enjoyment of the Charles River and its tributaries," according to the organization's website.

Taylor raced with the Reservoir Mutts, who took 18th place in the 24-mile race with a time of 4:27.12. He took part in the second leg of a race, and he said that both him and his teammate lingered on the water while waiting for their racing partner to reach them. When their time to race came, the pair raced as hard as their arms would allow.

"We spent an hour waiting around," Taylor said. "Finally, the boat came in, and we paddled very hard for 45 minutes."

Taylor's team, although they didn't win the race, were able to enjoy an afternoon of racing along Boston's famous river.

"I raced because a friend of mine was looking for a relay team," Taylor said. "It was enjoyable. It isn't something that I have done before."

Over 1,300 competitors dropped their boats into the Charles River as they paddled for a cause on a sunny April day. The race builds support for the CRWA, which plays a "prominent role in protecting and restoring the Charles River since 1965," according to a press release.

Along with the racers, there were more than a hundred volunteers and thousands of spectators. At the finish line, picnics were set up by many different groups with the Finish Line Festival.

"It was great to see all the families, companies, and paddlers and spectators fill DCR's Aretesani Park for the Finish Line Festival," CRWA Executive Director Bob Zimmerman said. "It's amazing how many companies set up corporate picnics throughout the park. People were excited, happy, and into it."

For a period of time, the Charles River earned a dubious reputation as a pungent waterway whose waters resembled a rain-bow. The river was once so dangerous that those who fell into its waters were urged to rush to the hospital for a tetanus shot.

Ever since 1965, the Charles Watershed Association has worked to clean the river and clear the way for many competitive activities, ranging from kayaking to swimming. Now, the river is crystal blue and is the sight for many recreational events.

Instead of worrying whether the water is toxic, kayakers like Tom Taylor can enjoy a calm and peaceful trip along the Charles River ... unless they're in the middle of a race.

Pan Mass Bike Ride

Setting a goal of raising $15,000

By BECCA QUIGLEY
Sports Correspondent

The state-wide Pan-Mass Challenge Kids Ride was officially integrated into the PMC program in 2005, giving young children the opportunity to participate in the ride to raise money through the Jimmy Fund for the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute's treatment and research.

For the fifth year running, the Wilmington PMC Kids Ride will be held at the Boutwell Elementary School on Sunday, June 6th.

Wilmington is recognized as one of the 35 towns in Massachusetts participating in the 2010 PMC Kids Ride, and has raised a combined total of $55,000 in previous years.

Coordinators of the annual event, 20-year PMC rider and physical education teacher Sue Hendee and Carolyn Priem, have set their goal of raising $15,000 at this year's ride.

"We love our Wilmington Ride because it truly brings the entire Wilmington community together," said Hendee. "Older kids can help volunteer; parents watch and cheer for the kids as they ride; teachers, school staff and custodians volunteer their time to help with registration and other aspects of the ride; and Wilmington police officers ride on the course with the kids to keep them safe and help with traffic control."

Each year, participating children ranging from pre-kindergarten to sixth grade pay a $15 registration fee and are encouraged to raise money for the Jimmy Fund prior to the ride. During the event, the kids ride their bicycles on a one-mile loop beginning at Boutwell, heading down Carter Lane and continuing through the grounds of the Wilmington Middle School and West Elementary School.

The ride is divided into three age groups; with kindergarten and first-grade children riding from 9:00-9:30 am; second and third graders riding from 9:45-10:30 am, and fourth through sixth graders riding from 10:45-11:45 am. A "Tykes on Trikes" ride is also hosted at the Boutwell

School for even younger participants.

Other festivities and traditions include music, face-painting, refreshments, and various PMC raffles. Riders who have raised at least $15 also receive a PMC Kids T-shirt. With the help of a generous sponsor, the Wilmington Kiwanis Club, there are plenty of hot dogs, a bike safety rodeo on the day before the ride, and new bicycles which are donated to the top fundraisers.

A new feature of this year's ride is the recognition of PMC "Heavy Hitters." Any child who raises $250 or more will receive a special hat and other items as rewards for their achievement.

"The kids enjoy these things, but they also take great pride in the amount of money that they raise for a very worthy cause," said Hendee.

With the exception of thunder and lightning, the ride is rain or shine. For more information or to register, visit: kids.pmc.org/wilmington/

Shibilia comes back strong

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

When Wilmington High junior Marc Shibilia is on the track running the 100 yard dash or the 4 x 100 relay he often has to dig for something a little extra to push him over the top, pushing his body to its limit.

Shibilia has been very successful at doing that this season for the Wildcats, and it should come as no surprise. After all, pushing his body to its limit is nothing new for him, and was never more apparent than last year when he suffered a broken leg during soccer season, and pushing himself thorough a painful rehab in order to return for the end of the spring season.

There was no such delay for Shibilia this season, as he has been with the team right from the start, and he has certainly made his presence felt, picking up many key wins and points for the Wildcats on the season.

Shibilia has qualified for this weekend's Division 3 State Class Meet at Oliver Ames High School in both the 100 and 4 x 100 and is closing in on the qualifying distance for the long jump, having jumped a season best of 19-9 1/4. Shibilia also has had a fine season competing in the high jump.

Qualifying for the state meet and having the type of season Shibilia is having would be enjoyable for any athlete, but for Shibilia, coming off what could have been a devastating leg injury, the year has been especially enjoyable.

Shibilia spent six weeks in cast and had screws put in his leg as part of the recovery process.

"It was brutal," Shibilia said. "The hospital recovery was the worst part because I was in so much pain. The surgery hurt more than breaking my leg. And then I had therapy three times a week for six weeks before that was scaled back. It was pretty rough."

That long recovery has made Shibilia appreciate this season even more. He has especially enjoyed being the anchor leg for the 4 x 100 team of sophomore Ed DeLucia and Andrew Fino and senior Rich Barry.

"It's great to be back and to be able to run again," Shibilia said. "It's been a really good year. I enjoy being the anchor leg, especially if we are behind and I can try and make up some ground at the end."

Wilmington coach Bob Cripps has been happy with Shibilia as not only the anchor leg, but in all of his events.

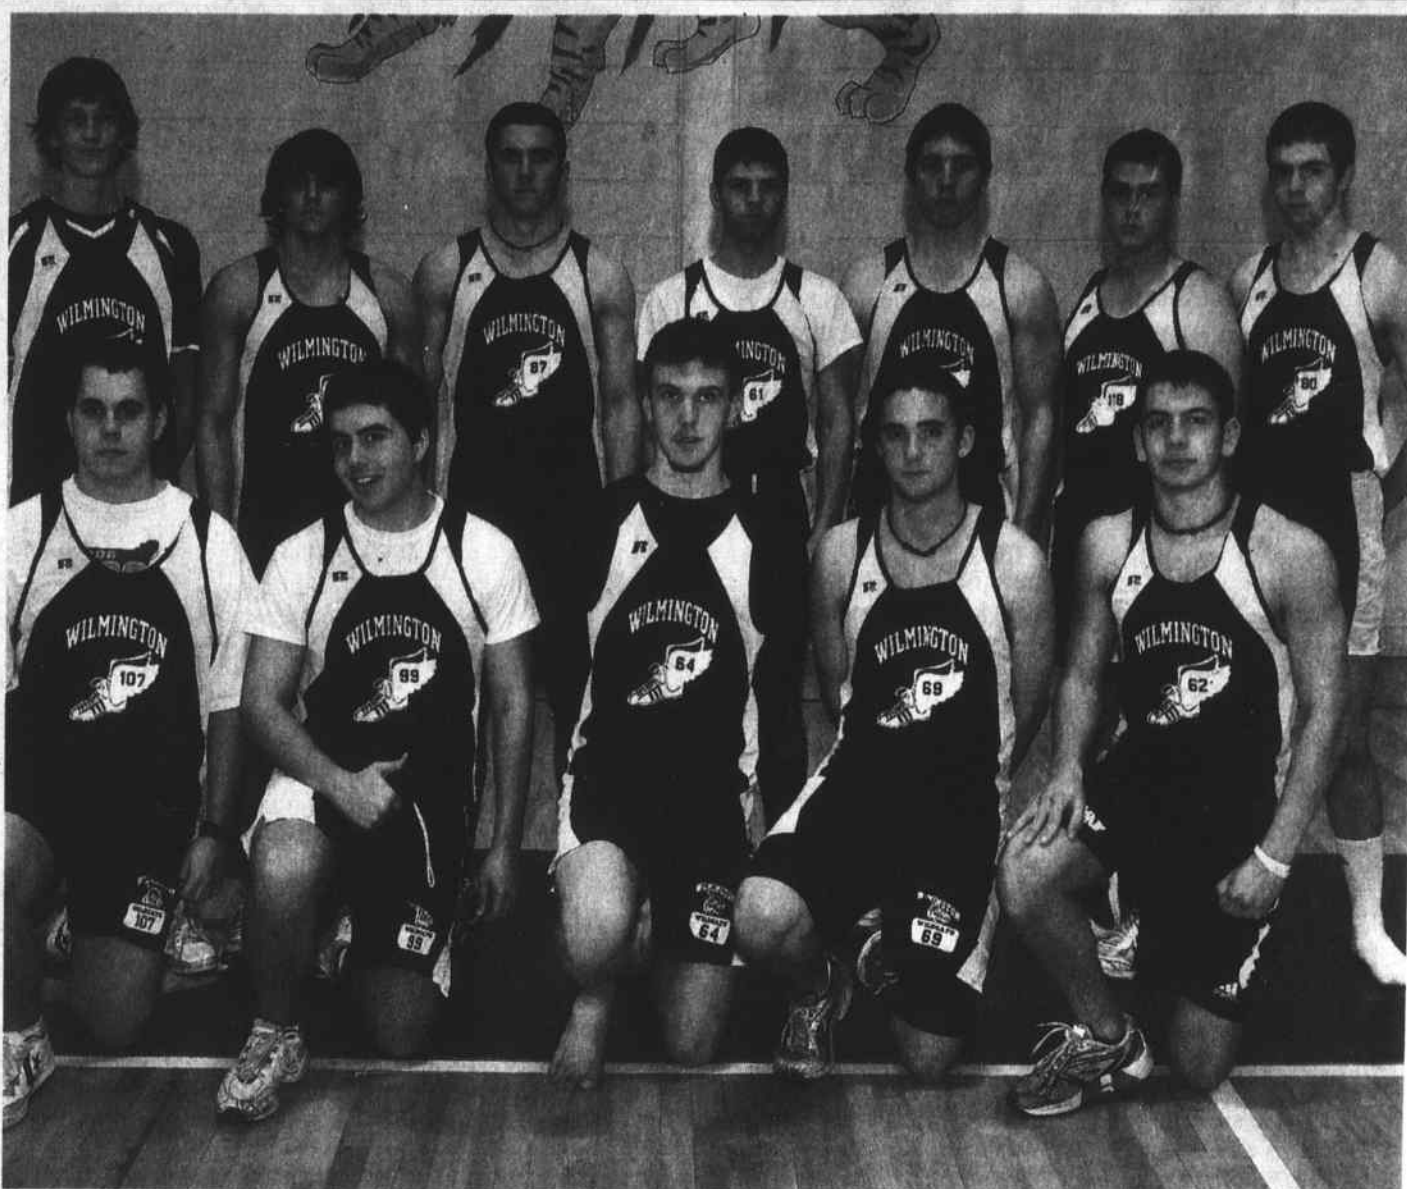

"He's a good kid to coach," Cripps said. "And I am happy that he will be with the team another year. He does what he is asked to do which is nice for a coach. With four events it sometimes makes it hard for him to concentrate on just one because of lack of practice time. But he still does a good job at all of them."

Shibilia has not let a lack of practice time bother him at all in the 100 yard dash, with a season best time of 11.4 seconds, and it has hardly affected him in the long jump either with his jump of 19-9 1/4. While his is happy to have qualified for the states in the 100 and 4 x 100, he will be looking for even more next season.

"That's my goal for next year," Shibilia said. "I feel like I was close this year and next year my goal is to make it in the long jump as well."

And next year will bring other responsibilities for

Relay team crowned CAL Champions

By MIKE IPPOLITO

The Wilmington High boys track team competed in the Cape Ann League Meet on Saturday afternoon at Hamilton-Wenham high school, and did very well, finishing fifth in the 11 team field, piling up 37 points on the day, while also winning the 4 x 400 relay.

"I think it was a good day for us," Wilmington coach Bob Cripps said. "I have no complaints. I thought we did pretty well."

The 4 x 400 team of seniors

Liam Gately, Tom Valente, Marty Bamberg and Caleb Rogers captured the title in a season best time of 3:30.8, beating their previous best by three seconds and outdistancing their nearest competitor in the meet by four seconds.

"They did a great job, and it is even better when you consider that Rogers had run the 800 just before it so he was pretty beat," Cripps said.

Despite not being at his best, Rogers ran the anchor leg in 51.26. Gately meanwhile, ran the first leg in a personal best of 53.95, beating his previous best of 55 seconds.

Senior Tom Valente was third in the javelin with a throw of 159-3 while junior Marc Shibilia took fourth in the long jump at 19-9 1/4, and Bamberg was third in the 400 in a time of 51.9.

The Wildcats took second and fifth in the 800 meters with Rogers taking second in a time of 1:59.3, while senior Joe Warren followed in 2:03.8.

While not earning points, junior Zach Sears had a very impressive race in the two mile, finishing eighth in a personal best time of 10:14.

"His best had been 10:31, so for him to come in the way he did was a major improvement," Cripps said. "He ran a very good race."

The 4 x 800 team of DJ Livermore, Shayne Kinsella, Jay Caruso and Joe Fitzgerald finished sixth overall in a time of 8:52, leaving them just three seconds shy of qualifying for the Division 3 State Class Meet.

Girls Tennis team wraps up season

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High girls tennis team wrapped up their season on Tuesday with a 3-2 win over Newburyport. The win gave the Wildcats a final record on the season of 4-10 overall and 3-9 in the Cape Ann League.

It was a fine way to end the season for the Wildcats who got wins from senior tri-captain Jessica Burke in first singles by a score of 6-2, 6-2 and fellow captain Christine Woods in third singles by scores of 6-0, 6-0.

The first doubles combination of senior Jillian Lacey and junior Kelly Duffy picked up the team's other win on the day, winning 6-4, 6-2.

Wilmington coach Kevin Welch was pleased with the way the team finished the season, particularly his first doubles combination.

"It was great to see Jill and Kelly close out the match. All season they struggled finishing matches but they came through for us in this one and clinched the team victory," Welch said. "It is a great way for Jill to finish and nice building block for Kelly for next year."

Making the win even more satisfying for the Wildcats was that they had suffered several close losses during much of the season. It was a difficult season in many ways for the Wildcats as they lost several matches by either a 3-2 final or by close individual matches even if the final results showed a more lopsided score.

Still though, the season brought many highlights for the players as well as for Welch.

Three of the biggest highlights for the Wildcats was the play of their senior tri-captains and singles players Burke, Alex Copp and Woods, each of whom provided Welch with the leadership he was looking for to help guide his younger players.

"My captains this year have given me the leadership I needed on the courts," Welch said. "They may not have won every match but the younger girls on the team had the opportunity to see girls play hard and never give up on themselves or the team."

"I watched Alex play hard for the entire match every time she stepped on the court. Alex played some good tennis this year against some of the best No. 2's this league has had in a few years," Welch said. "Christine of all the players I had from last year to this matured more as a tennis player than anyone else. She played a lot of mentally tough matches and she never defeated herself. Jess has had the most successful season of any number one I have coached. At times I think she is a better coach than I am. She knows her strengths and she uses them well."

While the senior tri-captains certainly led the way for the Wildcats they were not alone in giving their best effort to help the team this year. Welch used several different doubles combinations this season.

Senior Jillian Lacey and junior Kelly Duffy seemed to settle in as the Wildcats first doubles team and improved with each match during the season, picking up some key wins along the way.

"I have used seven different doubles line ups this year. I juggled the girls around quite a bit this year and they handled it well," Welch said. "Kelly has been playing really well which hopefully she can build and continue into next year."

"I will miss Jill. She showed great improvement over the years but more importantly, even on my bad days she made it fun to be at practice. Sometimes I lose sight of the fact that this is supposed to be fun she always did a great job of reminding me that tennis is fun."

The second doubles combination of juniors Christi Bush and Alyssa Fiorentino also provided not only some fine play this season, but hope for next year as well.

"Alyssa and Christi both gained a lot of experience that should help them handle matches next year."

The season did provide its share of frustrating losses and for the first time in three seasons the Wildcats did not qualify for post season play. The near misses left Welch wishing his team had accomplished a little more on the season, but also knowing that he got the most he could have in terms of effort out of his hard working team.

"When I look back on this season I do not think about losses," Welch said. "I think about the way the singles players battled and were able to secure the team victory in North Reading. I think about Rockport and the way Jess won her match even though she struggled and had to play a style she was not comfortable with playing. I also think about the progress Jill, Kelly, Christi and Alyssa have made this year."

And while Welch will enjoy looking back on this year's team for the effort they gave him, he is also looking forward to next season and the promising future of several of his players.

"I can look forward to next year knowing that Kelly, Alyssa and Christi gained a lot of experience this year," Welch said. "Two freshmen, Michelle Woods and Katie Richardson filled in the varsity line up at times this year and handled it well. They were not alone as far as talented freshmen and sophomores. I know I have five or six capable girls ready fill the opening created by this year's senior class."

The Wilmington High School Girls Tennis team finished its season on Tuesday with the team's seniors playing in their last match. Those girls include from left: Alex Copp, Christine Woods, Steph Kelly, Jessica Burke, Randi Davis and Jill Lacey. Shibilia comes back strong after injury

Shibilia as well. With several seniors leaving for graduation after the season, including captain Caleb Rogers, who also competes in four events for the Wildcats, Shibilia will be taking on an increased leadership role next season.

Whether or not he is a captain, Shibilia knows he will be counted on heavily.

"I have felt like that," Shibilia said. "Caleb is doing four events this year so I know next year I will have to do my best to help the team win. I feel like I helped them this year, but I will want to do even more next year."

But for now, the business at hand for Shibilia and several of his teammates will be this weekend's state meet where Shibilia will be facing the toughest competition he has seen all year. But Shibilia will not change his approach. After all, it seems to have worked very well for him this season.

"I know it will be tough, especially if the weather stays like this, but I will just do the same thing that I do for every other meet," Shibilia said. "I always do the same thing, except I put in a little extra preparation for the big meets like this one. I will be ready for it."

Lady Wildcats playing super softball

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Kaitlyn Souza kept up her hot hitting, Chelsie Babcock continued to dominate on the mound and the Wilmington High School Girls Softball team continues to pile up wins. As easy as that.

The Wildcats won all three games this past week over Pentucket Regional, 3-0, North Andover 6-2, and Masconomet 6-0, putting the team's overall record to 14-4. Wilmington has two nonleague games left against Tewksbury and Lowell before the state tournament pairings come out next week. There's also an outside shot that Wilmington can share the Cape Ann League title but that will only happen if Amesbury can defeat Newburyport.

But for now the Wildcats are playing fantastic, led by Babcock and Souza. Babcock is currently 11-1 on the season with an ERA of 1.43, and she has enjoyed five shut outs including a no-hitter and a pair of one-hitters. Souza on the other hand is batting .380 on the season and also sports an on base percentage of .520 - all of that is incredible considering she didn't have one base hit through the team's first six games.

Head coach Audrey Cabral Pini was asked about the differences of the two senior players from previous seasons.

"Chelsie is more poised and I think she's also having a lot more fun out there," said the coach. "She's not an overpowering pitcher but if you draw up the four corners on a box, she hits all four. She hits her spots really well, and when she's on, she gets a lot of groundballs to the right side of the infield and Jackie Zaremba has been terrific there at second base having a field day.

"I think the great defense definitely picks up a pitcher and having a pitcher who hits her spots and throws strikes definitely picks up the defense and those two go hand in hand. Tori (Lord) has also done some pitching for us, but Chelsie has thrown a lot more innings, she is the hot pitcher and we're going to ride her as long as she can go. Plus Tori is playing a great center field for us, so right now we are playing great and we're hoping to keep it up."

While the pitching and defense has been stellar, so has been the bat of Souza coming out of the No. 2 hole.

"She's on a tear," said Cabral-Pini. "When she gets on base, good things happen for us. We can really go to our short game and do some different things. Kaitlyn is just so fast - she can beat out the bunts and infield hits but when the infielders come in on her, she'll hit a solid line drive to the outfield. She's playing very well right now."

In the win over Pentucket,

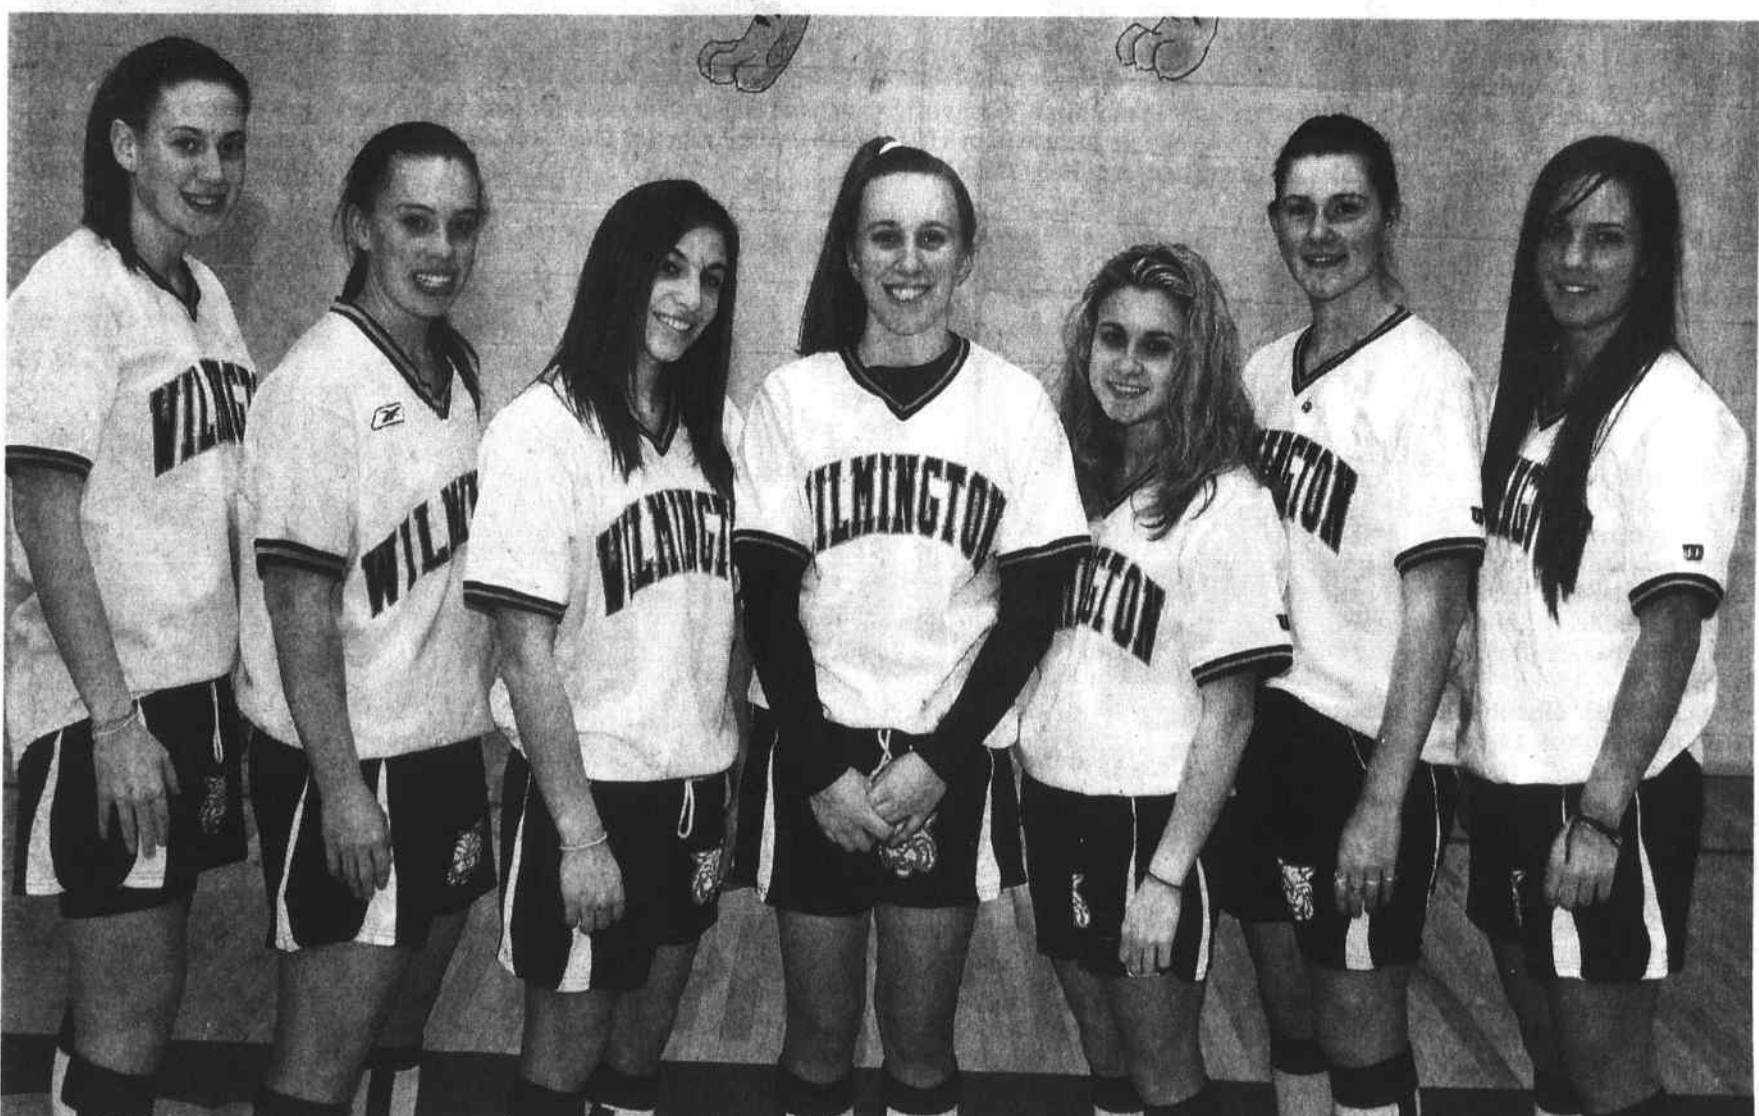

Babcock tossed a three-hit shut out, and struck out eight batters, and was helped out offensively by Brittney McLaughlin, Souza and Bree Parow, who combined for four hits, while, Liz Crannell chipped in with a RBI.

In the 6-2 win over North Andover, Souza had four singles to pace the offense and allow Babcock to earn another win on the hill. Wilmington banged out 14 hits in the win, with Emily Crannell chipping in with a double, and Liz Crannell, Parow and Tori Lord all scored single runs.

Against Masco at home Monday night, Babcock fired a two-hit shut out giving her five doughnuts on the season. She also contributed with the bat with a hit, scored a run and knocked in two, helping Wilmington make it a complete sweep over this past week.

Babcock allowed singles in the fourth and sixth innings and besides that she was in complete control, facing two batters over the minimum. The 'Cats were ahead 1-0 until scoring five runs in the fifth inning. Emily Crannell drove in two runs and had two hits, Brittney McLaughlin scored twice and had a hit, and Lord had a hit, RBI and scored a run.

On Tuesday night the Cape Ann League announced its all-conference and all-star selections. Wilmington's battery, pitcher Chelsie Babcock and catcher Brittney McLaughlin were named as all-conference selections, and shortstop Emily Crannell and outfielder Kaitlyn Souza were named as league all-stars. This is the second straight year McLaughlin was named all-league.

Both Lacrosse teams seasons come to an end

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High School boys' lacrosse team were defeated twice this past week, putting the team's record to 2-15 overall this season. Wilmington lost to North Reading, 11-5 last Friday and then were topped by Georgetown, 13-9 on Monday.

Against North Reading, WHS senior Ryan Malone got his second start of the season in net and made 13 saves.

"Ryan played very well and had a great game," said Wilmington head coach Mike Fay. "He was a tremendous asset to the program this season and an awesome contributor. He always had a positive attitude."

Peter Leighton led the Wilmington offense with two goals and one assist. Senior-captain Zack Rosa was also tremendous as he scored one goal and two assists. Senior Brandon Collins and sophomore Trevor Foley each contributed with two goals.

Against Georgetown, Rosa and Leighton were outstanding, as Rosa scored four goals and Leighton added three. Mitchell DeAmbrose, a freshman midfielder, scored one goal for Wilmington.

Wilmington wrapped up their season on Wednesday against Newburyport with results not being known as of presstime.

The Wildcats got terrific news recently when they heard that three of their players were selected to the all-star team. Senior Dan MacKinnon and Rosa were chosen to the first team and junior Andrew Wells was selected to the second team.

The three of them will play as members of the Cape Ann Conference team on Friday against the Northeast Conference squad.

Girls Lacrosse

The Wilmington High School girls' lacrosse squad lost three games this past week, finishing their record 5-13 overall this season.

The Wildcats were defeated by Newburyport 12-11 on Monday. It was a very exciting game, as the score was tied 11-11 with one minute ago. A Newburyport Clippers player scored with five min-

The Wildcats had 27 shots on net and got many contributions from the players.

Allie Robbins led the offense with three goals and added one assist. Katelyn McGuire, Holly Niemiec, and Ryan Gautreau each had two goals. Fiona Gately and Hayley Robarge each had one goal. Kellie Moon chipped in with one assist. Goalie Nicole Luz saw 24 shots and had 12 saves.

The Wildcats lost to Georgetown 8-6 last Thursday. Jacqui Lyman and Niemiec led the Wilmington offense with two goals each. Robbins and McGuire each scored one. Robbins also had two assists, and Moon and McGuire each had one assist. Goalie Emily O'Donoghue saw 26 shots and came up with 18 saves.

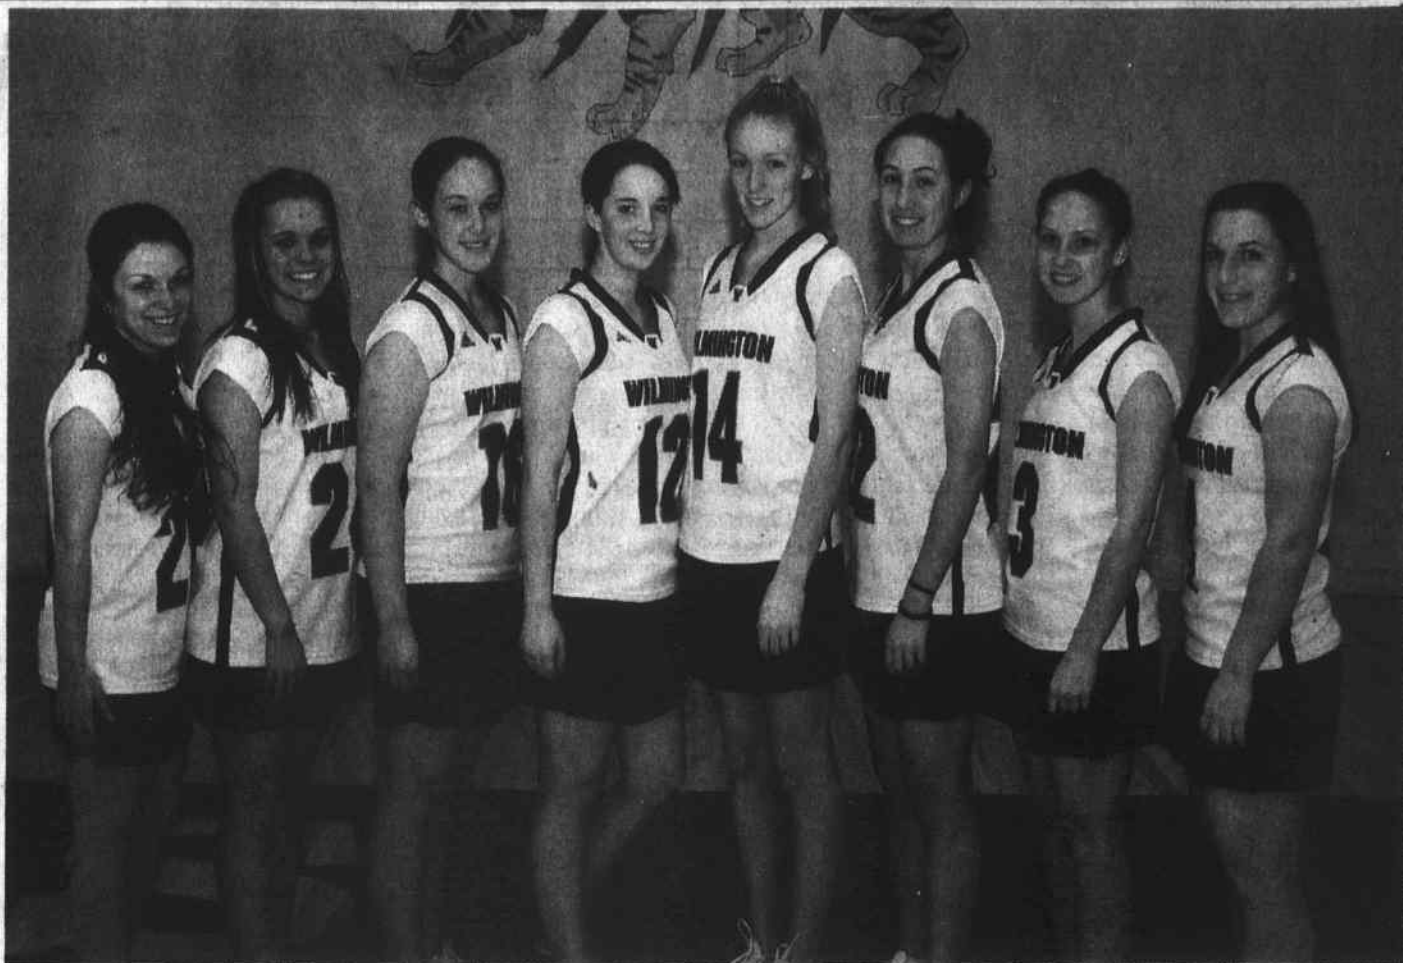

Wilmington lost to Billerica, 16-13 on Tuesday. The Billerica Indians had a 10-4 halftime lead, and the Wildcats comeback in the second half was not enough for the victory.

While the Wildcats have had their difficulties this season, they have always worked hard throughout every game and practice. They have had great leadership, led by seniors Robbins, Lyman, Luz, Kellyn Campbell, Ashley Gonzalez, Katelyn Hayes, Bryanne Mara, and Danielle Polcari.

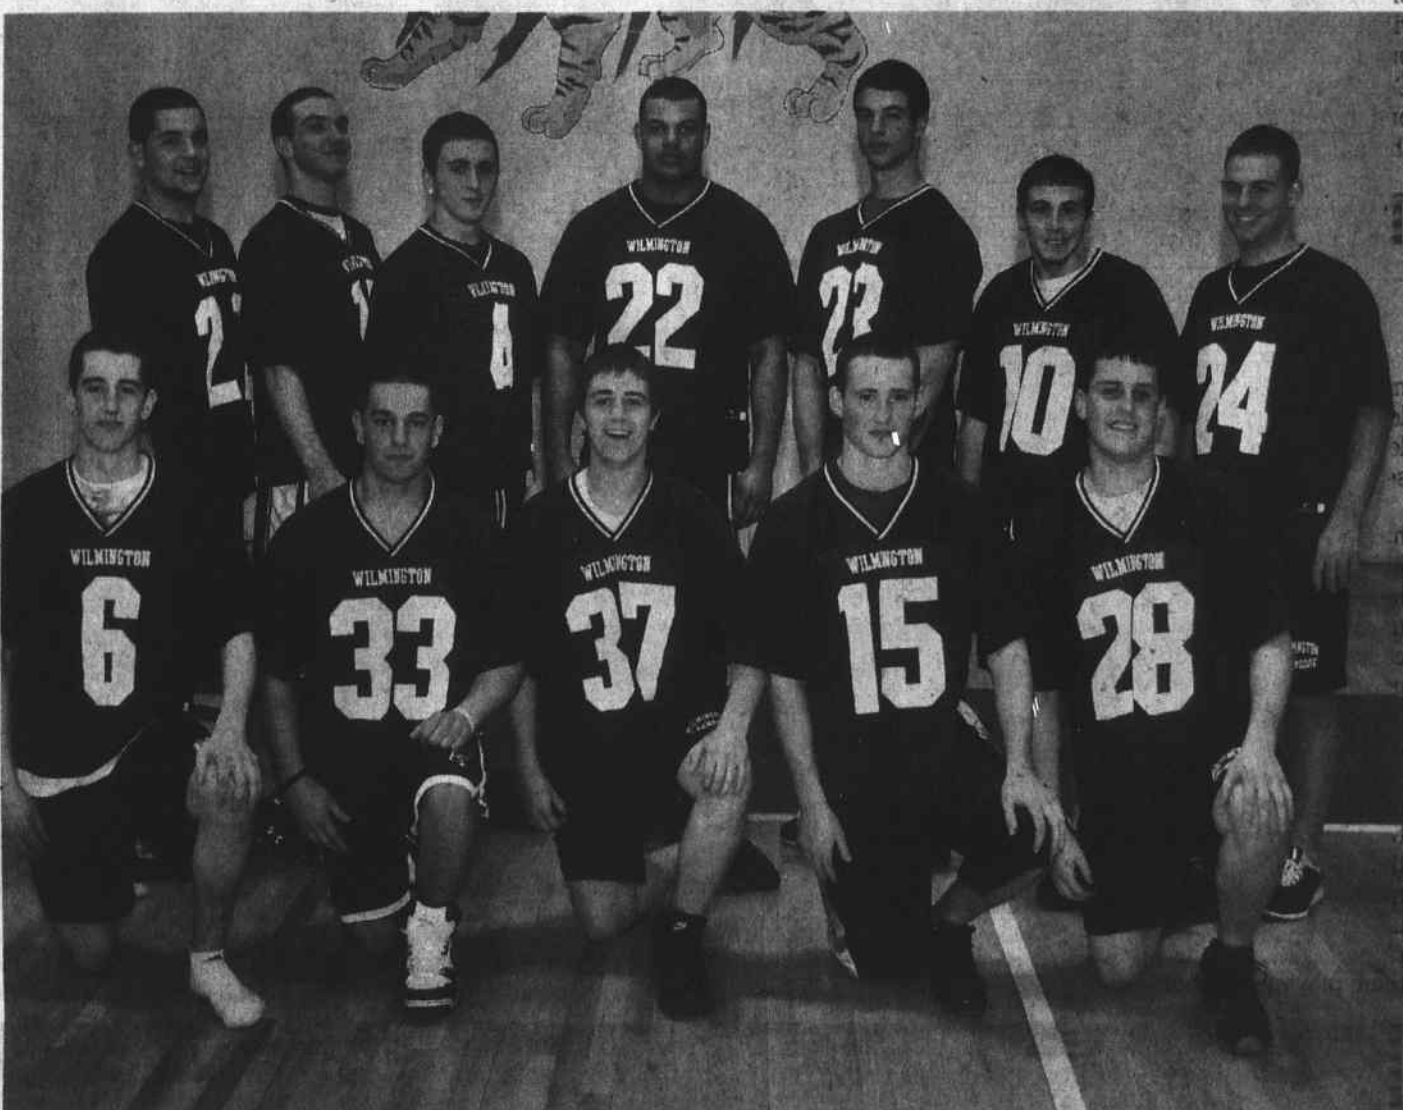

The club looks like it will have a tremendous team next year too. Juniors Gately, McGuire, Moon, Robarge, Kristyn Callahan, and Nicole D'Agostino have all made contributions this season and will be expected to lead the team next season.

Other juniors expected to get varsity minutes next year are players Elizabeth Jaeschke, Amanda Keane, Kim Nasiff, Emily O'Donoghue, Jessica Weaver, and Jenna Whooley.

Sophomores who could get varsity minutes next season include Courtney Cavanaugh, Katie Kurowski, Ryanne Newhouse, and Shelley Sullivan. Freshmen who are expected to contribute to the varsity squad next year are Niemiec, Gautreau, and Casey Herra.

Tewksbury dedicates new mat to two former wrestlers

By JOSH VOTO
Sports Correspondent

Sixteen years separated their deaths. A senseless murder and a tragic accident on a dark highway. Luke Byrne and Dan Gillette, TMHS graduates and varsity wrestling standouts, were remembered Friday night when the spanking new varsity wrestling mat was dedicated in their names before the annual alumni wrestling match.

In September of 1980, Gillette lost his life while attempting to rescue a woman in the middle of a multiple car accident. No one in the Tewksbury community was surprised that the small but tough 23-year-old Gillette gathered up all that courage in the last moments of his life. The Tewksbury wrestling community knew Gillette as a rugged competitor on the mat. Brother Mike Gillette knows that Dan would be busting some buttons with pride over Friday night's dedication.

"It was quite the tribute. The community had been so great for our family and has really supported us through such a tough time," said Gillette. "He died too young, and the community has done a wonderful job in keeping his memory alive. He certainly would have loved the mat that was donated in his name."

Luke Byrne had movie star good looks and a personality to match. There was nothing that Luke would not do for a friend in trouble. An auxiliary police officer at time of his death, Byrne was stabbed to death while trying to break up a fight on a dark street in Lowell. His friend and roommate Mike Manna remembers Byrne and what he meant to his community.

"He was just a great guy. He had an inviting smile and was extremely outgoing. From the moment that I met Luke I looked up to him. I was very upset when Luke died. The community was wonderful and I was very excited to go to the alumni wrestling event and see the mat dedicated to Luke."

There are scholarships given out each year in memory of both men. The Luke Byrne Scholarship is presented to standout athletes at Westfield State. There is also a scholarship given out for the memory of Danny Gillette. It is given out each year to one special student of Tewksbury Memorial High School for their outstanding work throughout the community.

After attending Westfield State College, where he was a standout football player, Luke Byrne settled down and moved to an apartment with his friend and roommate Mike Manna.

"Danny was my nephew, and Luke was my best friend," explained Manna. "It was so very difficult losing the two being that they were so young. They were two really terrific guys, and I'm sure they would have really enjoyed watching their friends and family gather to dedicate a mat and support Tewksbury Wrestling in the process."

Said Gillette, "Everyday I miss Danny. There's not a day that goes by that I don't think about him. I loved him very much. I have a daughter that looks a lot like him. I named her after my brother."

Tewksbury Alumni wrestling night a blast

By JOSH VOTO
Sports Correspondent

Many people throughout the Tewksbury wrestling community turned out Friday night to support the alumni wrestling meet held within the Wynn Middle School's gym. The event helped raise $5,000 for the Tewksbury High School Wrestling Team as well as the P.A.L. Wrestling Team. The night also featured a very classy gesture by the wrestling community as a new wrestling mat was donated on behalf of two former TMHS wrestlers, Danny Gillette and Luke Byrne, who both lost their lives too early.

There were many people cheering for each match throughout the night. These people were clear reflections of the strength and passion resonating throughout the wrestling community, all the while, the entire night was a complete success.

"It was awesome," said Tewksbury resident James Wackrow, who is a volunteer for the youth wrestling program. "I think it gets people involved and hopefully brings new fans. The event is held not just to raise money for the wrestling programs throughout town, but to raise awareness about the wrestling community as well."

Some of the former wrestlers who took part in the event included Tom Aylward, Dave Shunamon, Steve O'Keefe, Mark Donovan, Bob Donovan, Mike Donovan, John Voto, Stephen Voto, Jason Voto, Paul Allen, Joe Carr, Chris Ryan, Pat Sands, Jim Tarpey, Dave French, Joel Altavesta, Scott Tremlett, Scott and John Devivo and the Waken Brothers. There were two teams, one headed up by former TMHS wrestling coach Al Donovan, and the other was headed up by current head coach Brian Aylward - both tremendous wrestlers in their own right.

Each match consisted of two wrestlers competing for three rounds of one minute each. The matches were taken seriously by each alum trying to maintain their pride on the mat, as well as reflect their skill as a wrestler. The fans that turned out appreciated the chance to see some of the alumni wrestle.

One fan, John Bosco, was extremely impressed by the way in which the event was held. He enjoyed the passion from each alumni who took part in each match as well.

"I thought it was great," said Bosco. "I wish they held these things more often. It was really entertaining!"

Friday night allowed many people to pay tribute to two very important figures within the wrestling community that both tragically passed away; Danny Gillette and Luke Byrne. Each of the men was a brilliant reflection of the Tewksbury wrestling community and the passion involved with the sport. To show the Tewksbury Wrestling Community's gratitude to the two wrestlers, they donated a brand new mat with the name of each wrestler on it. It was a great way to preserve the memory of both men.

"I thought tonight was a great tribute to two great wrestlers," explained Mark Donovan, head coach at Shawsheen Tech. "Danny Gillette and Luke Byrne will always be missed and I think tonight was a great way to show our appreciation to them."

Danny Gillette's brother, Mike, was also pleased with the way Friday night went. He thought that it paid tribute to his brother quite well, and thought that his brother would have been very happy with the way things went and the people that came out to pay their respects. He was also happy with the new mat that the Tewksbury Wrestling Community honored with Danny's name.

"It was great," said Michael Gillette. "It was very impressive. I think Danny would have loved it."

Many wrestlers also enjoyed the competition and the chance to take to the mat with other Tewksbury alum.

"It's always a good time," said David Shunamon, who was recently inducted into the TMHS Hall of Fame after a brilliant wrestling career. "It's great for the wrestling community, and I always love the competition."

Other wrestlers just enjoyed the chance to get back on the mat and compete against some of the younger guys.

"It was a great night to get a lot of guys who wrestled with Tewksbury to come back," said Brian Aylward. "It's hard to wrestle the kids, but it was a fun night."

Pitching the key for Baseball team's success were sophomore Vin Scifo, who had three singles, and Butters and Nick Boutoures, who both had a pair of doubles.

"We did have our chances earlier in the game to score a few runs but the ground rules up at Pentucket took three 400 or better foot shots away from us," said Cairra. "Nick Boutoures had two blasts and Evan (Butters) had another. All three with runners on first and two outs and all three were deemed ground rule doubles by the umpires because the Pentucket coach yelled to his outfielders to let the balls roll onto the cement block that was in left centerfield.

Evan got his second double of the day by driving it to right center. No ground rules out there and that allowed Cole Pepper to score our second run after he knocked in the game winner."

In the loss to Masconomet, football star Evan Bunker gave up just three singles and struck out nine to outlast Butters, who gave up just one hit over six innings but fell victim to a loss. He ended up walking three batters and struck out six. The lone run was scored in the bottom of the sixth on a sacrifice fly, with the rally starting with an one-out single. "The performance by Evan Butters against the No. 5 team in the state was absolutely amazing," said Cairra. "You know before the game started I went up to Evan and said to him, your the guy that I wanted to face these guys. I told him that I had all the confidence in the world in him and he sure proved to us all that he could do it. He had a no-hitter into the sixth inning. A walk, a seeing eye ground ball hit to right field and a sacrifice fly was all that Masco needed and they stole a win from us 1-0."

For Wilmington, Murphy, Hanley and Derek O'Dea had the base hits.

"We actually hit Evan Bunker, probably the best pitcher in the CAL better than they hit Butters," said Cairra. "We had three hits, they ended up with only one. It would have been nice if our three hits were strung together but unfortunately for us they weren't and they were able to with stand any challenge that we offered."

Catcher Brett Meuse was tremendous behind the plate throwing out three base stealers, coming in each of the first three innings.

"You know a coach doesn't like to lose a game, any game," said Cairra. "Whether it be against Manchester or Masco, but those last two games we played, against two top 20 teams (were tremendous ball games). I think it showed every one watching that these athletes that I have here are real performers. They gave me 100% out there and I am so looking forward to the tournament so we can show some people what we are really made of."

Earlier last week Wilmington was defeated by North Andover 3-0.

"Nick (Boutoures) pitched as good as anyone could against those guys," said Cairra. "The story of the game was that we just didn't hit, we only had two hits. That kind of surprised me a bit because we have been hitting the better pitchers that we've seen this year pretty good. We actually hit a couple of hard liners, but they were right at them. We never really got going offensively, but pitching wise and defensively it was one of if not the best game we played all season."

Wilmington is now 11-7 on the season and have two games left on the schedule with the annual Dick Scanlon Memorial Day tournament. The four-team tournament will be played Saturday and Sunday with Monday as a raindate. The Wildcats will take on St. Peter of Marian on Saturday morning at 11:00 am, with Billerica and Reading to follow. The losers of each game will face each other in the championship game on Sunday, with the winners facing each other for the championship game starting at 2:00 pm.

Burke makes WHS Tennis History

as the rest of her teammates next season, but she is looking forward to the challenge that college will present.

"It is definitely going to be hard," Burke said. "I have just become so comfortable here and I know it will be much more difficult going to college. But I just have to get used to it. I know it will be hard, but I also know I can do it."

Burke will take many great memories with here from her time at Wilmington High, but the memory she remembers most fondly is not an individual match win for her, but rather the experience of her team playing together.

"In my sophomore year, our upperclassmen were really great and really supportive of the younger players," Burke said. "The whole team really got along well and they really helped me out. We were a very close team and we made it to the tournament."

As much as Burke will miss Wilmington High, she will be missed equally as much. Not just for her athletic exploits, but for her excellence in the classroom as well.

Welch knows that Burke will be able to move on to the next phase of her life knowing she has made the most of her time at Wilmington High.

"As seniors move on to the next stage of their lives they can get emotional as they think of what they will miss from their high school years," Burke said. "Jess will not have to think about what she missed she can think about what she accomplished."

"I will definitely miss coaching her next year. She has been a big part of the success of this team for the past three years, but beyond wins and losses she is a true student athlete. She is a three sport athlete and top student. She is what we want our high school athletes to be."

Rams Softball teams ends perfect in CAC

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech softball team captured their second consecutive Commonwealth Athletic Conference Upper Division crown this week, wrapping up their perfect CAC season with a 3-1 victory over Greater Lowell on Tuesday afternoon in a home game.

The win over Greater Lowell capped a perfect 14-0 CAC season for the Lady Rams, who also improved to 17-3 overall as they prepare to host a first round game in the State Vocational Tournament on Monday, followed by a likely high seed in the MIAA Division 3 North Tournament when pairings are announced next Tuesday.

The Lady Rams are now 27-1 over the past two seasons in the CAC, but coach Maureen Buckley's sole focus after the win on Monday was what that one victory meant to this year's team.

"This was a very big win, not just for the league but because it kept us undefeated against vocational schools which guarantees us a home game in the first round of the voke tournament," Buckley said. "The girls have played well together all season long and this was huge for them to make a statement like this."

Greater Lowell actually got on the board first with a run in the top of the second inning, but the Lady Rams fought back in the bottom of the third as a walk by Allyson Trayah, a single by freshman Ari Medeiros and a single by Brooke Mallahan, all Tewksbury residents loaded the bases and one batter later, Wilmington resident Kristina Lees laced a single to score Trayah and Medeiros and give the Lady Rams a 2-1 lead.

Senior pitcher Sara Elwell of Tewksbury shut the door from there for Shawsheen and the Lady Rams added one more run in the bottom of the fifth when senior Jenna Zechner singled and stole second and third base before scoring on a sacrifice fly to center by Franny Pesantes.

The run in the fifth inning was huge for Shawsheen not only because it gave them a big insurance run but for the way they scored it. Buckley knows that runs will be hard to come by in the upcoming tournaments and runs like the one created by Zechner and Pesantes will be huge for them.

"This is the time of year when you have to manufacture runs," Buckley said. "If we can take advantage of our opponents mistakes and limit our opponents ability to manufacture runs we will be successful."

That Zechner and Elwell figured prominently in the win for Shawsheen came as no surprise to Buckley who has been thrilled with the way the team's only two seniors have led the Lady Rams this season.

"They have done a great job, not just with their play, but with their work ethic," Buckley said. "Their attitude and their dedication has made a big difference to this team."

It's impossible to say what lies ahead for this Shawsheen team, but regardless of what happens in the upcoming voke and state tournaments, Buckley has been very pleased with what she has seen from her young team in the regular season, as they have exceeded any expectations she might have had for them.

"I never imagined that we would be 17-3 with six freshmen playing on the team," Buckley said after Tuesday's win. "That is a credit to the older girls on the team for teaching the younger kids what Shawsheen Tech softball is all about. Today was a great day for us, and I am very proud of these girls. What they have done is very impressive."

Boys Lacrosse

The Shawsheen boys lacrosse team wrapped up their fourth straight league title this past week, with a 14-3 win over CAC rival Minuteman last Wednesday in a road game.

The win improved the Rams to 15-2 overall and 12-0 in the CAC.

It was the Rams first ever CAC crown, as this is the inaugural season for the league, with the Rams and many of their current CAC rivals playing in the Mass Technical Lacrosse League for the past several seasons, and the Rams winning the last three league title in that league.

Overall, the Rams have gone 64-8 over the past four seasons and have lost only one league game in the past three seasons. Coach Chuck Baker, along with seniors Ryan Hunt of Wilmington and Cory Foss have been a part of all four teams.

For Baker, it is difficult to compare this year's championship with those of previous seasons.

"Winning the fourth in a row for the program is great. Foss and Hunt have been on all of them. That's not a bad career for the two of them," Baker said. "I personally don't like to compare, each team seems to get their own identity."

The identity of this year's championship team seems to be a team that is strong in all areas, with players like Foss, Hunt, Erik DellAnno of Wilmington and Ryan Woolaver of Tewksbury leading the way on offense, strong play from defenders like Kris Galdi, Jesse Dillon, Dylan Leone of Tewksbury and Devin Connearney, and great goal-tending from Frankie Mearles of Wilmington.

"This team has a lot of potential," Baker agreed. "We have solid defense, all of whom are juniors, and our ability to score is there as well."

In the clincher against Minuteman it was Foss and Woolaver who led the way with Foss notching four goals and an assist and Woolaver adding three goals and three assists. DellAnno had two goals and two assists while Ryan Hunt added two goals as well.

Baker was not surprised to see Foss and Woolaver lead the charge in a big game for the Rams.

"Woolaver and Foss have been productive all season. They have developed a solid bound and play well together," Baker said. "If teams try to lock them down, DellAnno can step in and tally on the scoreboard. We have a lot of weapons when they all show up on the same day."

Even with all the weapons and with all the success the Rams have had this season, Baker is not about to get ahead of himself headed into a post season where he and his team will face some stiff competition.

"We will take it one at a time," Baker said. "We just want to strive for that first win in the tournament and then go after the next. It depends on if we show up for all four quarters obviously."

Baseball

The Shawsheen baseball team was unable to complete its quest for a CAC title, dropping a 14-2 decision to Greater Lowell on Tuesday afternoon at Shawsheen. The loss left the Rams with an 11-7 overall record for the season and they finished at 10-3 in the CAC, finishing one game behind co-champions Greater Lowell and Whittier Tech.

While coach Jim Sullivan obviously would have liked to see a better conclusion to the regular season, he was not going to let the way the season ended diminish his enthusiasm for all the good his team accomplished throughout the year.

"In no way does this loss affect the way the kids played during the year," Sullivan said. "We achieved at many levels this season. We were team oriented from the start and supported each other throughout the year. We set a high bar for ourselves and while we did not quite reach it, it shows the character of the team that we set the bar so high."

Going 10-3 in the league with a largely inexperienced team was not something that was expected for the Rams, so while Sullivan and the Rams did not quite reach their goal, Sullivan was happy with the effort it took his team to get so close.

"I believe it is a great accomplishment to go 10-3 in the league," Sullivan said. "At the start of the year nobody thought we would do this and that speaks very highly for the kids on the team. I am very proud of them and what they have accomplished"

And Sullivan also hopes that the Rams accomplishments for the season are not done, as they have qualified for the Division 3 North Tournament, with the pairings to be announced next Tuesday.

"We have finished the regular season and we now look forward to seeing what we can do in the new season, which is the tournament," Sullivan said.

Bonnell ready for next battle

World Championship Fighting announced four featured fights for their WCF 10 event, scheduled to take place June 11 from the Shriner's Auditorium in Wilmington, MA. Fresh of a stunning knock out win at WCF 9, Wilmington's own Dan Bonnell takes on WCF new comer Christian Rivera. Christian is a veteran of over 10 mixed martial arts fights, and though the majority of his wins have come by submission, Christian has been known to stand and bang. The combination of these two will make for a very exciting fight on June 11.

Boneyard Fighter Dave Gilrein is also set to make his WCF debut, and he takes on Aniss Alhajjajy. After a long layoff, Gilrein made his return to action in February 2010, and won a dominant decision at 170 pounds. He moves back down to his more natural 155 pound weight class to take on a buzz saw in Alhajjajy. Alhajjajy has looked fantastic in his two prior WCF fights, and looks to keep his streak alive against Gilrein.

Joe Dechaves will also make his WCF debut, and he takes on Noah Weisman. Joe is 3-2 overall, and has shown great submission skills and a mean streak in the ring. Weisman started his WCF career with two dominant wins, and he gave John Benoit all he could handle at WCF 9. These are two of the most exciting up and comers in the area and you don't want to miss this.

More fights are expected to be announced in the next week, and you do not want to miss this event. World Championship Fighting also launched their new interactive website, and it's flat out incredible. Fighter interviews, photos, videos, as well as ring card girl bio's and information on how to become a part of World Championship Fighting can be found on their new website, which can be found at www.wcfighting.com

O'Reilly recalls old Town Park days

Gerry O'Reilly just celebrated a birthday, and there is no need to disclose his age at the very top of this column. All one needs to know about O'Reilly are these words that so aptly describe the man who for many years was the number one Wilmington sports fan and gadabout about town. Got a sports question? See 'Scratch' O'Reilly's nickname that stuck through these many years. Want to have a heated sports discussion that would always end with a handshake that asked 'see you later?' See O'Reilly. Gerry was there with the history and the stuff that local legends are made of. He was also the prime mover and shaker behind the meeting of the 'Wilmington Old Sports' - a group that has helped to keep the flame of Wilmington High School sports history burning since its first meeting in March of 2008.

O'Reilly looks back on his baseball days with all the heart and soul of a man who lived for that first pitch every spring. Long after his playing days were over, O'Reilly could be seen leaning up against some backstop somewhere. Follow the bats and the balls, and there would be O'Reilly helping to offer some advice to a young player, or simply quietly observing and remembering that day when he whacked that first - and last - homerun. O'Reilly put his feelings about baseball and that first homer in a piece that he called 'The Ball Fields of Youth.' It is detailed in the location of events, but in the end what comes shining through is a love for the game of baseball in Wilmington.

"I remember the first homerun I hit. I was in the second grade at the Silver Lake School, and the playground was across the street from the school in what they called the 'icehouse' foundation. It was a red brick wall, two feet high that enclosed the 100 by 50 foot field. I hit a ground-ball up the middle that bounced over the wall, and I scampered home."

"Another ball field was at the end of Grove Avenue along the railroad tracks. If there were no big kids (Gilligan and Stewart) around, we could use that field. If we felt a little intimidated by the bigger guys, we could walk around the corner to 'Benson's Park' on South Street near Lake. If we wanted to play a game later in the day we could go over to what we called the 'Row of Pines' between South Street and Nichols Street. Nichols met Brown Street, where there was another team, where the Wilmington kids would play ball - 'Atkins Grove.' There was always the field near Melzar's house near Silver Lake. Milligan's Grove' on the Tewksbury-Wilmington line was another of our favored fields for many years."

O'Reilly says that the little nooks and crannies that made up the baseball diamonds of his youth made many games worth remembering. Every bad hop, every long walk to a game that could last well over three hours. Then it would be on to another diamond - another nook and cranny.

"Thompson's Grove had a well-worn and over-used field that featured a left-field wall. It was a field that was surrounded by tall pine trees, and Saint Dorothy's Church was built right on that baseball field. We even played baseball on Pop Neilson's (Uncle of late Town Crier Publisher Larz Neilson) Field, where the Town Hall sits today." O'Reilly remembers Neilson selling corn that was grown on that particular field.

"I should also mention 'Maroon Field' on Cottage Street, but little kids never had a chance to use that diamond because the older guys would come around and take charge of that field. Both ends of the Town Common would be used - and well used. The entire Common would become grass-free and dusty, but that didn't matter much when it came time to play baseball."

"Some of our time was spent at the Whitfield School - but not much time for us 'Lake Kids.' I remember when we were just hanging around - one of us would say - 'let's go down to the Town Park.' We would grab our gloves - the few that we had - and walk down the train tracks to Town Park. When we got tired, we made the trek back along those same tracks back to the lake area. Today, some people are routinely arrested for being on those tracks. Today, it is a crime report in the local papers. Years ago, it was a part of getting somewhere to play baseball."

"The fields where we played were tucked neatly into an area that would be 60 degrees rather than 90. The base-paths were worn-out and deep. The pitcher's mound was a deep depression in the middle of the diamond, and home plate was an even deeper hole, indicating that many other generations of players had used the same field. There were no backstops. The ball fields of my youth are gone now. There are homes built on the diamonds where Wilmington's kids played baseball. There were photographs taken that show what is on those fields today. These were the fields of times gone by."

"I remember that we were lucky to have one bat when we played games on those fields. The bat that we used was usually discarded by the big guys - the end was splintered and the shaft cracked, but the bat was always well-covered by some black friction tape. That was one mean looking bat. The baseball that we used was also black-taped, and the kid who did the taping always did a masterful job. This was all part of playing a game that we loved."

"The ball would be hard, heavy and shaped like a lemon. 'Tattersall's' sold 'brick' balls for a nickel, and they only survived a few hard whacks. That's when the fake cover would crack off and the sawdust would spill out."

"The fields of my youth were used all summer long by the kids of Wilmington, and although the teams were picked by a regular 'pecking' order, the bigger kids always seemed to be in charge. When summer was over, 'tag rush' football took over the baseball fields. Wilmington really is fortunate today to have many well-manicured, green-grassed ballparks, but today the kids don't use those fields on hot summer days to play 'Rollies at the Bat,' 'El Socko,' or 'Scrub.' For that matter, the kids today don't play stickball, half-ball, cork-ball or my personal favorite - rubber ball. Kids play today only when there are grown-ups in charge to blow the whistle."

From cornfields to baseball diamonds, Gerry O'Reilly's career carried from Little League to CYO ball to the Wilmington High School varsity. Crossing over from Tewksbury into Wilmington, O'Reilly was tracked down to round-out some facts for this column. He accepts a birthday greeting, and in typical O'Reilly fashion - gets right to the point. "Make sure that I get some credit (for the 'Old Sports' material). I'm 78." But the fact that he still cares enough to make a point speaks volumes. He was in full-disclosure mode now. He remembers the last homer on Above, Gerry O'Reilly touches the plate after his third homerun in a 13-0 win over the Dracut Middies. It was O'Reilly's last homerun of that 1951 season - and the last of his Wilmington High School varsity baseball career. a field that sparks even more memories even today.

O'Reilly was 18-years-old and a senior varsity baseball player at Wilmington High School. He stepped up to the plate and whacked his third round-tripper in a 13-0 rout of Dracut at the Town Park Field. The Wildcats were finishing up a tough season, but

O'Reilly has a fond memory of this day. Three homeruns in one game is big stuff. Sixty years ago Gerry 'Scratch' O'Reilly made his mark in the WHS' baseball history books. He went from playing in cornfields to rounding the bases at one of his favorite fields. That was quite a trip for the boy who played with

Sr. Softball Under 16 League

Team Blue 17, Team Purple 13

The U16 Blue and Purple teams met last week in Senior Softball League action and battled back and forth until the top of the sixth inning when the game was called due to rain and darkness.

Blue and Purple matched runs through two innings for a 4-4 tie. Katie MacDougall's first inning RBI-double and Kelsey Mangan's RBI-triple in the second helped Purple's offense. Alex LeBlanc also had a single in the first. Robin Hollenbeck tripled and scored in the top of the third to give Blue a lead, which they added to in the fourth, scoring four more runs on hits by Nicki Lunt, Erin Duffy, and Molly Fanikos.

Purple pulled ahead with six runs in the bottom of the fourth, which included a single by Jackie Parece that scored two runs. Hollenbeck got her second hit of the game with an RBI-single in a six-run fifth inning which put Blue back on top 15-10.

The bottom of the sixth saw Purple score three runs on Danielle Reynolds' second hit of the game and a single by Rachel Devlin which drove in two. Blue would add two more runs in the top of the sixth before the rains and darkness forced the umpire to call the game. Despite the poor game conditions, there were several notable defensive plays. Reynolds threw out two Blue base runners and Casey Murray made a nice catch in left field to rob Megan Priem of a hit.

Blue leftfielder Katie Finn made a great running catch of her own to take away a hit from Parece in the second. Other solid defensive plays were turned in by Fanikos, Nicole Potcner, and Jessica Kasperian of the Blue team. Purple's Katie Goodwin, Blue's Lauren McKenna and Ashleigh Howland all reached base safely in every at bat.

Under 16 Blue 11, Braga Landscaping 8

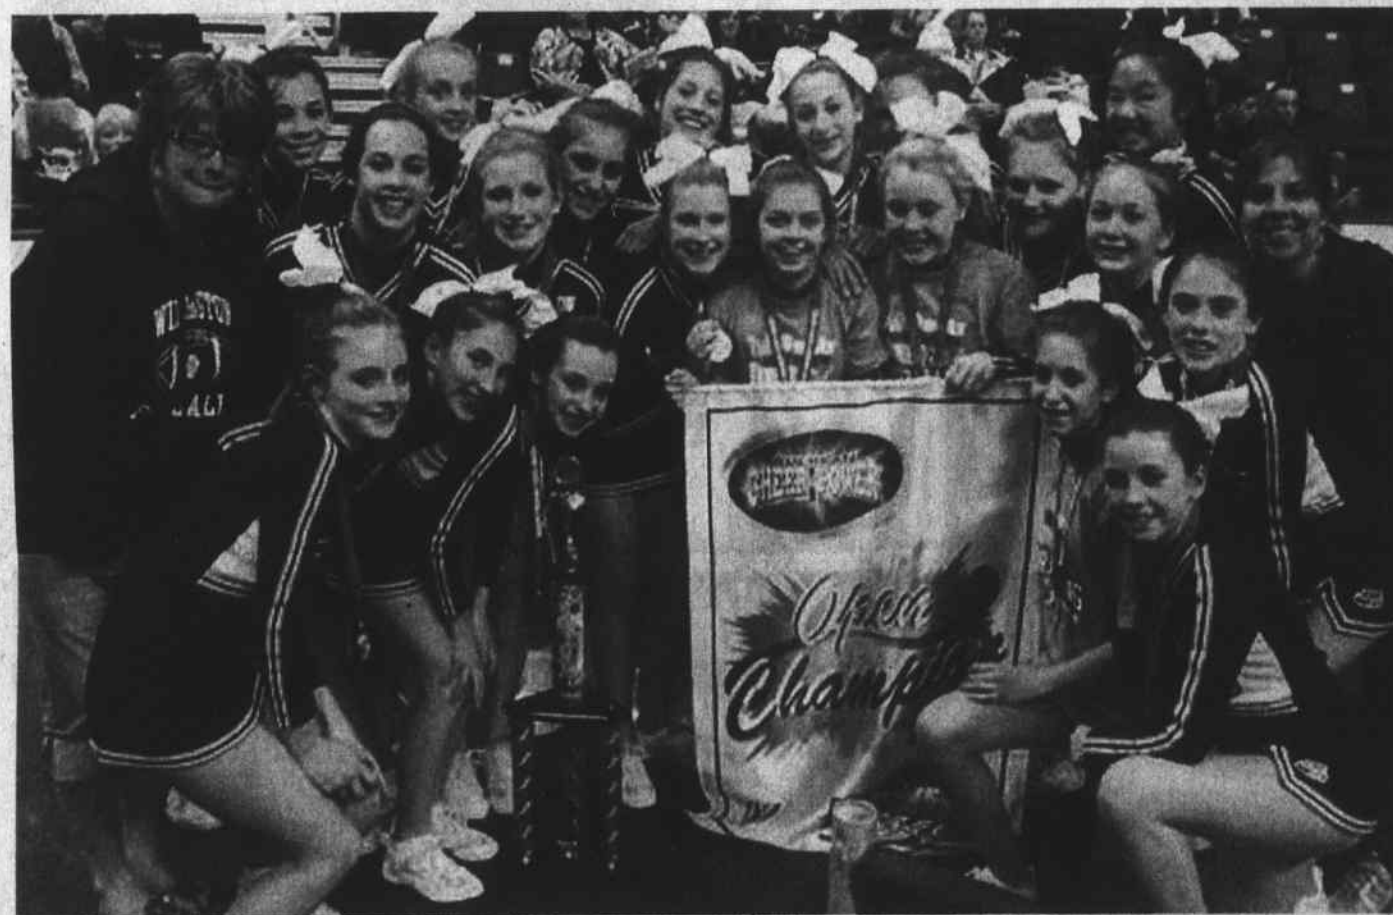

The U16 Blue team played host to Braga Landscaping of North Reading last week and used strong pitching and some nice defense to hold on to an early lead and claim victory in a 11-8 game.

Jillian Williams, Kelsey Finn and Casey MacDonald combined on the mound to scatter seven North Reading hits and strikeout five. North Reading pitchers also did a fine job, striking out 12. The Blue offense came from two hits each by Jackie Kennedy and Lauren McKenna and a RBI-single by Kelsey Finn. Finn also had one of the many defensive highlights with a running catch in centerfield in the fourth inning. Rightfielder Molly Fanikos followed that with a nice catch in the fifth.

A North Reading baserunner stole third base in the first inning and tried to score when the throw got away. Alertly backing up the play in leftfield, Casey MacDonald fired home to catcher Katherine McKenna to nail the runner at the plate. McKenna played a strong game behind the plate, tagging out four other North Reading runners on various plays.

With two outs and a runner on second base in the seventh, Lauren McKenna caught a line shot at firstbase to end the game and give Wilmington a well earned win. Although hits were scarce in the game, when Blue reached base they used their speed to get themselves into scoring position.

The team had a total of 15 stolen bases. Kennedy and Kelsey Finn had three each. Williams, Lauren McKenna and Nicole Potcner had two. MacDonald, Katherine McKenna and Jessica Kasperian each had one.

Under 11 Boys Lacrosse team wins

The Wilmington U11 Boys Lacrosse team traveled to Cape Ann over the weekend and proved a great day for a lacrosse game as the Wildcats won 8-2.

The Wildcats took possession of the ball early on. Robert Lord put the 'Cats on the board, scoring the first goal of the game in the first few minutes of the game. Next would follow Shane Ahlin's magnificent shot and David Derosse's sizzling shot into Cape Ann's net to score the next two goals.

If not for the remarkable goaltending of Nolan Sullivan, who made several amazing saves and the defensive line of Nicholas Leighton, Alan Morris, Zach Perdicaro, Cal Stafford, Mason Vega, Seth Duarte, and Patick McAndrew who were all outstanding, Cape Ann might have snuck in a few more goals. They limited Cape Ann to only two goals in the game.

Before the half was over, veteran player Anthony Dell'Anno fired a shot into Cape Ann's net for the fourth goal.

In the second half of the game, Wilmington dominated the game with their continuous passing and advancing the ball upfield forcing Cape Ann's defense to stay on their toes. But no one could stop the middle lines of Mark Companschi, Randall Vega, Ryan Collins, Andrew Sullivan, and AJ McKearney who gave a brilliant pass to Michael DuCharme for the next goal.

The 'Cats goals in the third quarter were thanks to Dell'anno's and Lord's speed and agility. With the help of the superb attack line of Ryan Barrett, Julia Ryan, Tommy Robarge, Sean Keeley, and Daniel McGaffigan, Ryan St. Jean would finish the game scoring the last goal for the 'Cats.

Ride for World Health

Peter Croft's bike journey takes him 3,700 miles for a great cause

By PAUL FEELY

If all goes as planned, a Reading native will complete a bike ride across the country this week, all in the name of charity.

Peter Croft, a 2010 graduate of the Ohio State University College of Medicine this spring, and a former Reading resident, has spent the better part of the last two months "Cycling Across the Nation to Meet Needs Across the World," taking part in the 2010 Ride for World Health.

In April and May of 2010, a group of medical students, health care professionals, and community representatives embarked on the Ride for World Health, a 3,700 mile bicycle ride from San Diego, California, to Washington D.C. to promote education and awareness of global and domestic health concerns as well as raise needed funds for World Bicycle Relief and HEAL Africa.

Along the way, they have stopped at numerous locations all over the US to create a dialogue and lead discussions on issues related to healthcare in the United States and abroad - issues like poverty and disease, healthcare access, women's and children's health, and infectious diseases.

Ride for World Health organizers and participants believe that education and empowerment of the public is a critical step toward improvement in global and domestic health.

Croft is a 2001 graduate of Reading Memorial High School and the son of long-time Reading track coach and current School Committee member Hal Croft and his wife Susan. He graduated from the University of Virginia in 2005, and this year served as a Major Events Coordinator / National Team Rider for the 2010 trek.

In addition to helping to organize and schedule events along the way, Croft has also taken part in those events himself.

"I've also given talks along the way at various types of schools," said Croft. "High Schools, elementary schools, middle schools, colleges, even with groups like the Girl Scouts."

He has enjoyed the folks he has met from all parts of the country as part of his journey.

"The people along the way have been very helpful, more so in some stops than in others," said Croft. "The crowd in El Paso, Texas was very receptive, and in our home base of Columbus, Ohio we always get a lot of support."

But there are points along the journey where people have simply never heard of the Ride, or its cause, before.

"It's been difficult at times this year," said Croft. "We changed up the route a little bit, and we've gone through places where the crowds have been smaller, but we got to see places throughout Arizona, New Mexico and Texas. It's nice to see new places, and you get the word out about the Ride to new groups of people along the way."

In a letter Croft wrote, "Ride for World Health is a 501 (c)(3) non-profit organization which was founded here at Ohio State in November 2004 by medical students. R4WH was created with a few, very simple ideas in mind. 1) There are a great many people across the globe, in the U.S. and abroad, who are not receiving proper healthcare. 2) There is a significant link between poverty, disease and lack of access to healthcare.

Peter Croft

3) Something can be done about it...and it starts with education.

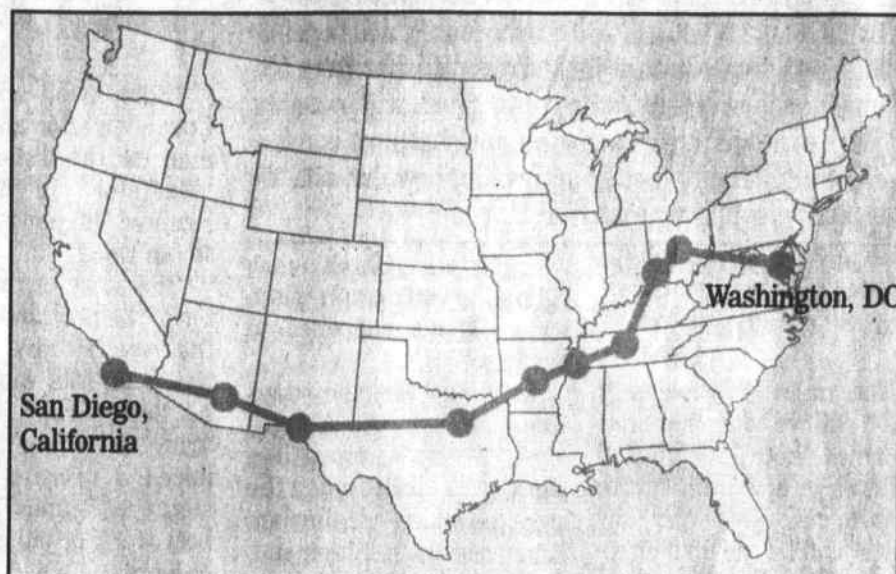

"Each year, the R4WH National Team embarks on a 56-day cross-country bike ride which spans 3,700 miles from San Diego, CA to Washington, D.C. This event provides both a dynamic and health-conscious platform to deliver the "Coast-To-Coast Lecture Series", R4WH's novel approach to global health education. This series is comprised of several global health-related topics which we deliver to more than 40 audiences across the country...from grade schools to metropolitan medical centers. We also spend a significant amount of time hosting fundraisers to support the beneficiaries of our 2010 Ride...The World Bicycle Relief Fund and HEAL Africa. Along the way, we cook our own meals, camp or spend the night with hosts and go to great lengths to keep our logistical costs low so that our fundraising goes to those who need it most."

Ride for World Health (R4WH) is a non-profit organization.

Today, the organization consists of many members of the medical community, including physicians,

D.C., R4WH initiates meaningful dialogue about global health with communities along the way. This year, the ride began and nursing students, and other professionals who participate in the annual 3,700-mile coast-to-coast bike ride and lecture series.

From San Diego, California to Washington,

April 1 and was scheduled to conclude May 25. The mission is to address global health disparities by focusing on education, advocacy and fundraising. The goal of R4WH is to raise significant funds for

by Paul Feely

"Shrek Forever After" not as clever

"SHREK FOREVER AFTER" is the fourth, and hopefully final installment in the Shrek series. It is far from the original movie in creativity and tone. Shrek will probably give the audience a few laughs, but the sharp wit is missing. The animation is better in this film however, and 3D adds an interesting aspect to the film.

"SHREK FOREVER AFTER"
GRADE: **

The main characters of this fairy tale that has charmed both adults and children is now in its fourth installment, and with any luck it will be the final chapter - before any more of the original's magic is lost.

All the familiar faces are back for this one, and the best thing about this latest offering is the look of the film, not necessarily the story.

Few moviegoers are unfamiliar with the story of Shrek, the huge green ogre who lives in the land of Far, Far Away. Many moviegoers are likely also familiar with Frank Capra's classic "It's a Wonderful Life" - a plotline that the new Shrek draws heavily from.

After challenging an evil dragon, rescuing a beautiful princess and saving your in-laws' kingdom, what's an ogre to do? Well, if you're Shrek, you suddenly wind up a domesticated family man. Instead of scaring villagers away like he used to, a reluctant Shrek now agrees to autograph pitch forks. What's happened to our hero?

Longing for the days when he felt like a "real ogre," Shrek is duped into signing a pact with the smooth-talking dealmaker, Rumpelstiltskin. Shrek suddenly finds himself in a twisted, alternate version of Far Far Away, where ogres are hunted, Rumpelstiltskin is king and Shrek and Fiona have never met. Now, it's up to Shrek to undo all he's done in the hopes of saving his friends, restoring his world and reclaiming his one True Love.

The animation is even better than what we've seen in the series three previous installments, and the 3D feature adds an interesting aspect, but the eye candy is just a distraction to keep your mind off the story.

Still, this is far from the original in creativity and tone. It's not as clever, and while it will generate a few laughs, the sharp wit just isn't what it used to be.

Shrek Forever After stars Mike Myers, Eddie Murphy,

Cameron Diaz and Antonio Banderas. The film is directed by Mike Mitchell and produced by Gina Shay and Teresa Cheng. Executive producers are Andrew Adamson, Aron Warner and John Williams. The screenplay was written by Josh Klausner and Darren Lemke.

"ROBIN HOOD"
GRADE: ***

Ridley Scott and Russell Crowe, director and leading man for the historical epic "Gladiator" in 2000, are reunited 10 years later for Robin Hood.

The story of this protector of the poor and enemy of the wealthy and powerful has been told many times, but Scott, Crowe, and a vast army of actors have produced a massive new version that stands up to the best work of either of their careers.

For a different take on the tale, Scott's Robin Hood is a prequel, giving us a look at the legend's origins, albeit on a massive scale. Crowe is Robin Longstride, an archer in King Richard the Lionheart's army.

Returning from fighting the Crusades in the Holy Land, King Richard and his men pillage their way across France. The marauding English king may be loved by his loyal soldiers, but the movie's script stays away from making him a ovable character in the eyes of the audience, painting him as little more than a bandit, but one with a crown and an army at his disposal.

Richard's misadventures abroad have left his own country at the mercy of his younger brother, Prince John, a true dictator in waiting. The English church and state rule without fear of reprisal, taxing the people beyond reason and denying them the most basic rights.

Longstride's evolution from common archer to Robin Hood begins after the routine sacking of a French castle turns disastrous for Richard. Suddenly left with no king to command him, the quick-thinking Longstride gathers his small band of friends for a hasty return to England.

Obviously, these friends - Little John (Kevin Durand), Will Scarlet (Scott Grimes) and Allan A'Dayle (Alan Doyle) - are the future Robin Hood's merry men - and they indeed know how to party.

Just the opposite, Crowe plays Longstride as the most thoughtful and undemonstrative of men. He's a hero who chooses to let his actions speak for him, but is able to come up with the inspiring speech when needed.

Sharing the movie is fellow Aussie Cate Blanchett, co-starring as Marion Loxley. In an age when women have no rights, Blanchett runs her elderly father's 5,000 acres with equal parts strength and compassion. Crowe and Blanchett's budding relationship also gives the film comic relief as well as romance.

"IRON MAN 2"
GRADE: ***

"Iron Man," dominated by Robert Downey Jr.'s playful performance, was such a refreshing surprise as a superhero movie that many had high hopes that "Iron Man 2" would break recent trends and be a refreshing surprise as a super sequel.

"Iron Man 2" is as good as the 2008 original and may be even better. Its story flows more consistently (the original lost momentum after Tony Stark (Downey) escaped from the cave in Afghanistan, and the finale, was clunky. The sequel's ending is a much more satisfying adrenaline rush.

Like "Spider-Man 2," this sequel delves more deeply into the main character's psyche and pushes his personal story forward while muddying up relationships with his closest friends.

"Iron Man" ended with Stark deciding to ditch the whole secret identity thing and tell the world, "I am Iron Man." The sequel deals with the consequences of being a celebrity superhero. Stark remains brash in public. "I have successfully privatized world peace," he says at a Senate hearing where the government demands he turn over the "Iron Man weapon" to the military.

Privately, Stark wrestles with the reality that the Iron Man suit is killing him. The tiny reactor in his chest that keeps his heart from failing is also poisoning his blood. He goes into a depression, and his erratic and drunken behavior drives away his loyal assistant, Pepper Potts (Gwyneth Paltrow), and Air Force buddy Jim Rhodes (Don Cheadle, replacing Terrence Howard).

Take Tony Stark's potential self-destruction at the story's core, add two villains, and "Iron Man 2" is stuffed to its transistors with characters, subplots and personal arcs (in addition to everything else, Stark deals with issues involving his father).

But director Jon Favreau keeps the story's many elements in balance. "Iron Man 2" introduces two adversaries, one for Tony Stark and the other for Iron Man. Stark's nemesis is Justin Hammer (Sam Rockwell, sleazy yet captivating), a rival arms manufacturer who envies Stark's charm and adulation. Iron Man's villain is a more typical comic book bad guy, Ivan Vanko (Mickey Rourke), AKA Whiplash, a heavily tattooed Russian physicist who believes Stark's father stole the arc reactor idea from his father.

Favreau knows the characters and performers made the first film a hit and allows that to continue. Tony promotes Pepper to CEO of Stark Enterprises, which allows Paltrow to step up her integrity and determination. It also allows Johansson to become Stark's new assistant.

Tony Stark never completely reforms. Part of him remains the spoiled, playboy industrialist - the bad boy of superheroes - that made Downey the ideal Tony Stark. Equally credible as a charmer or a manic-depressive, Downey's Stark still serves as a refreshing alternative to the other big screen superheroes, the middle ground between noble Peter Parker and brooding Bruce Wayne. The special effects are spectacular, but Downey is the reason Iron Man keeps ticking.

"A NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET" GRADE: **

There's really no need to take another trip to Elm Street - unless, of course, you're a movie executive wholooking to make a few quick bucks off horror fans on opening weekend.

The faces have all changed in the 2010 version of Wes Craven's horror film classic 'A Nightmare on Elm Street', but the story remains the same as the one that played out over 20 years ago.

This remake is an above-average re-imagining of the story, but there was no real reason to take on the project, other than a quick money grab.

READING: LOVING LUCIE

"Lucie Cripps, long time EMARC Board Member, is retiring after 52 years of volunteer service," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Lucie has a long and valued history with EMARC. She began her involvement in 1958 when her daughter enrolled in our pre-school program. This was just one year after the agency's formal incorporation. It was clear from the beginning that Lucie was going to play an important role in the growth of the agency and the development of quality services.

"In the early years she took on tasks such as going door to door to raise money for the school. Lucie became the volunteer Chair of EMARC's Nursery School and Developmental Day Care Center. In 1967 she was appointed to the first Area Board for the Department of Mental Health and Retardation and became the Chair of the Mental Retardation Sub-Committee. In this role she conducted an extensive study on the needs of those in the East Middlesex area with developmental and intellectual disabilities.

"In 1968, after taking a social work training course, Lucie became EMARC's first Parent Counselor/Resource volunteer. In that capacity she made home visits to new families and guided families to appropriate services and programs. An effective advocate and listener, Lucie was the source of strength and hope for many families. Lucie served as EMARC's contact and referral source to both Children's Hospital in Boston and the Hogan Regional Center.

"Lucie played a pivotal role in planning and implementing EMARC's residential supports division which opened its first group home in 1972. Over the years Lucie continued to assist the agency in pursuing new residential development through collaborations and partnerships with local housing authorities. She was the long-standing President of the non-profit holding company that owned the properties that housed our residential programs until this organization merged with EMARC in 1998...."

WILMINGTON: BUTTERS UP

"Work is finally underway on the renovation of the 1682 Butters farmhouse on Chestnut Street, the second oldest house in Wilmington," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"The contractor, Gerard O'Doherty, has begun jacking up the saltbox house, replacing the sills and doing structural reinforcement as well as some exterior work.

"The house was built by William Butters, who served on the first board of selectmen in Wilmington in 1730. His father had settled about 100 yards away from the existing structure in 1665 or so, near the corner of Chestnut Street and Mill Road. At the time, Chestnut Street did not exist, and Mill Road was a path coming down the hill from what is now Burlington. Will Butter is believed to have been the first settler in what is now Wilmington.

"The Butters farm, or the remaining five acres of the farm, was bought a few years ago by local developer Joseph Langone. The Wilmington Historical Commission approached him, and the town bought the house in October 2006 for $450,000, with funding provided by the state.

"Much of the ensuing three and a half years have been taken up with the work of establishing its authenticity and securing grant money for renovations. In 2007, preservation expert William Finch prepared a Historic Architectural Assessment Report, noting the historic value of the house and the critical issues needing attention for preservation.

Last year, the town received a $45,000 matching grant from the Mass. Historical Commission. The town hired the architectural firm of Menders, Torrey and Spencer, specialists in historic architecture, to set priorities and create specifications for the most urgently needed repairs. The town hired Gerard Doherty of Lincoln to undertake the recommended structural repairs. The contract period began on March 1...."

TEWKSBURY: THE ADOPTION DIFFERENCE

"It's amazing how much the state of education in the U.S. has drastically changed since we were children!" notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"While School Committees struggle with funding, students lack access to basic, current classroom supplies such as books, globes, maps, and hands-on learning tools and technology. Now there is a way for all of us to change this situation and enrich the education for Tewksbury Students.

"Adopt-A-Classroom is a national non-profit program that invites the community into the classroom in support of the students. By sponsoring a classroom, donors form partnerships with specific groups of students providing financial and moral support. Connections can occur through the donation of funds, needed materials or direct service opportunities. The result is a collaboration that supports and celebrates a classroom's success. Lasting relationships with teachers and students are forged and classrooms are transformed into vibrant centers of learning.

"Adopt-A-Classroom is an easy-to-use, efficient web-based program with the following features: Businesses and individuals choose a classroom and contribute a $25.00, or more, tax-deductible donation; Donors receive immediate tax documentation via e-mail; 100% of the donation is received by the teacher as online credit. Please go online to www.adoptaclassroom.org and check out the classrooms at Tewksbury Memorial High School waiting to be sponsored."

Athletes & Activities

by Paul Feely

*MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

With their Game 7 win over the Boston Bruins, the Philadelphia Flyers became just the third NHL team to come back from trailing 0-3 in a playoff series to win that series. Who were the other two? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

Seniors William Nguidjoi (Lawrence, MA) and HEATHER MCCARTHY (BURLINGTON, MA) were named the men's and women's Field Athletes of the Week by the Northeast-10 Conference, released Tuesday.

Nguidjoi and McCarthy were among four UMass Lowell athletes cited as sophomore Nicole Giaquinto (Winthrop, MA) was named the Women's Track Athlete of the Week while Craig Bennett (Milton, MA) was named the Co-Freshman Athlete of the Week.

The honors followed a handful of stellar efforts at the New Balance Boston Twilight Invitational Saturday at UMass Lowell's Cushing Field.

Nguidjoi, cited for the second time in three weeks, won the triple jump with a distance of 44 feet, 6.75 inches. He also played third overall - tops among collegiate athletes - in the long jump with a distance of 22' 5.25".

McCarthy also impressed in two events, winning the long jump (17' 7.5"), and posting a distance of 35' 7.25" in the triple jump as the sole entry.

Giaquinto captured the 200 meter dash in 25.12 seconds and also ran a leg on UMass Lowell's 4X100 meter relay team which placed second in 47.55 seconds.

Bennett, who shared the honor with Stonehill's Corey Thomas, won the 400 meter dash in 48.46 seconds.

Freshman utility player KATIE DAVIS (WOBURN, MASS.) of the University of Southern Maine Huskies softball team has been named to the New England Softball Coaches' Association (NESCA) 2010 Division III All-Star Second Team and the National Fastpitch Coaches' Association (NFCA) New England Region Second Team. The announcement was made Friday by both coaching organizations.

"Katie had a tremendous season as a freshman," commented veteran head coach Bonny Brown-Denico. "Her ability on the field and her maturity off of the field was a tremendous asset to our team during the season. She provided us with a significant offensive threat and played solid defensively throughout the season."

Playing first base, third base and outfield for Southern Maine throughout the season, Davis had a spectacular freshman campaign playing and starting in all 43 games. Davis led Southern Maine in several offensive categories batting .444 with 59 hits in 133 at bats. Batting third in the lineup, Davis amassed 19 doubles, one triple, four home runs and 41 runs batted in and 92 total bases with a .692 slugging percentage. Her 41 RBI and 19 doubles established new Southern Maine single season records, while her 59 hits are third in single season history. A solid defensive player, Davis recorded 144 putouts and 34 assists for a .947 fielding percentage.

Davis earned first team All-Little East Conference honors in her rookie campaign. In Little East Conference statistics, Davis was first in doubles, second in runs batted in and hits and fourth in total bases and batting average.

Southern Maine finished its season 13-30 overall and 7-7 in the Little East Conference.

•Need some help with this week's question? The years were 1975 and 1942.

•Six members of the UMass Lowell women's and men's track and field teams won events at the New Balance Boston Twilight Invitational Saturday at the Cushing Complex.

The meet, the last of the regular season, drew colleges from all three NCAA divisions as well as many athletes representing postgraduate track and field clubs from the Northeast and Canada.

Several UMass Lowell athletes await NCAA Championship seedings to be announced Wednesday.

SENIORS HEATHER MCCARTHY (BURLINGTON, MA), William Nguidjoi (Lawrence, MA) and JACQUI BARRETT

(WOBURN, MA) each brought home titles as did senior Steve O'Brien (Groton, MA), sophomore Nicole Giaquinto (Winthrop, MA) and freshman Craig Bennett (Milton, MA).

McCarthy won both the long jump with a leap of 17 feet, 7.75 inches and the triple jump (35' 7.25"), the latter as the sole entry. On the men's side, Nguidjoi won the triple jump (44' 6.75") and placed third in the long jump (22' 5.25"), but was the top collegiate finisher.

Barrett won the shot put with a throw of 48' 10", while O'Brien, the sole entry in the 3,000 meter steeplechase, posted a time of 9:20.15.

Giaquinto won the 200 meter dash in 25.12 and was one of three River Hawks in the top three places ahead of sophomore Amy Delgado (Bridgewater, MA) who took second in 25.86 and freshman Shannon Cunningham (Foxboro, MA) third in 25.88.

Giaquinto also ran a leg on UMass Lowell's 4X100 meter relay team which placed second with a time of 47.55 seconds, just behind Southern Connecticut (47.34).

Seniors Sharikka Finley-Moise (Lexington, MA) and Katrina Lutkus (Lowell, MA) and sophomore Ashley Zielinski (Manchester, NH) also ran splits.

Bennett won the 400 meter dash in 48.46 seconds, posting a comfortable 1.08-second lead on independent Roman Henry, who took second in 49.54.

Nguidjoi was one of a handful of River Hawks who emerged as the top collegiate finisher in their respective events. Senior Haley Catarius (Marshfield, MA) was the runner-up in the 800 meters with a time of 2:14.86, just behind Jennifer Metz of the Westchester (NY) Track Club, who took first in 2:11.96.

Junior Cory Murray (Methuen, MA) placed third in the shot put with a toss of 51' 3.0", behind Richard Harris of the Greater Boston Track Club (57' 3.0") and Andre Reid of ConnQuest (54' 9.25").

In other events, junior Angus MacDonald (Methuen, MA) placed second in the 1,500 meters in 3:50.71 while junior Matt Blazon (Lowell, MA) placed third in the 110 meter high hurdles in 15.25 seconds.

On the women's side, JUNIOR SARAH BONOMO (TEWKSBURY, MA) and FRESHMAN COLLEEN KENNEDY (WILMINGTON, MA) placed fourth and fifth in the 1,500 meters. Bonomo ran the course in 5:05.92 while Kennedy was right behind in 5:06.53.

CROFT From S-1

non-profit organizations that provide health care for developing communities across the globe. The 2010 beneficiaries are HEAL Africa and World Bicycle Relief.

RAWH also strives to raise awareness about global health issues and empower individuals to become informed, active global citizens.

Croft has personally benefitted from the ride, as his preconceptions about certain parts of the country have changed.

"What surprised me most was how different the places were from my perceptions of them," said Croft. "I pictured Texas as being arid and barren, but there was actually a lot of lush landscapes, and lots of grazing cattle along the ride route. Arkansas was beautiful, and the new route took us through National Parks in Arizona and New Mexico. It's hard to describe how amazing it is waking up to the sun rising over a mountain in a National Park."

Croft estimates that he and his team have traveled roughly 75 miles a day, every day, since the journey began back on April 1 (he and his team were scheduled to complete the ride this week, pulling into Washington, DC on Tuesday, May 25).

Everyone enters the race having taken on his or her own training, and the end result is that team members often travel the route at their own pace as well - some faster than others.

"Some team members trained very hard to prepare, and they have done it before," said Croft. "Others trained much less. I personally did about an hour or two a day on a bike for three months to get ready. It becomes a challenge to organize things and set up support, because people are completing the daily course at their own pace."

Upon graduation from OSU med school, Croft hopes to get back to this area before starting his career in medicine.

"I expect to get back to Reading for awhile after graduation, probably in June," said Croft. "After that, I'll do my residency in emergency medicine at Maine Medical Center in Portland, Maine."

The unofficial start to summer

With the coldest of weather behind us in most of the country, this month ushers in two days of commemoration that mark the unofficial start of the summer season. In the United States, Memorial Day signifies the beginning of barbecue and pool weather, while in Canada it is Victoria Day. Here's a look at the origins of each of these holidays and traditional celebrations, significances which may get lost in the shuffle as people anticipate the nice weather ahead.

Memorial Day: Americans celebrate Memorial Day on the last Monday of May each year. It commemorates the men and women who died while in military service and was previously known as Decoration Day. Initially designated to honor Union soldiers who fought in the American Civil War, Memorial Day has since been expanded to embrace fallen American soldiers in all wars.

There are many traditional observances on Memorial Day. Visits to cemeteries and memorials are made across the country. Volunteers often place American flags on the graves of fallen veterans. A national moment of remembrance takes place at 3 p.m. local time, and the president visits Arlington National Cemetery. Flags around the country are also flown at half-mast from dawn until noon as an honor to lost heroes.

Some towns host Memorial Day parades and other fanfare. The National Memorial Day Concert takes place on the west lawn of the United States Capitol. Music is performed, and respect is paid to the men and women who gave their lives for their country.

Parades are often conducted, with the most prominent taking place in Victoria, British Columbia. Fireworks and other celebrations are commonplace.

Victoria Day is also the mark of "cottage season" around Canada. That's where cottage owners reverse the winterization of their properties and embrace the warmer weather. Gardeners may also begin to plant, as it's fairly certain that the frosts have gone.

IT'S ALL ABOUT THE FAMILY - Ashley and Christopher LaBella (above) working the grill at a local function. Look for them all summer long, delivering great food with a local flavor.

If You Grill It...They Will Come!

Big Pig Barbecue & Catering sets the stage for great American BBQ and outdoor parties all summer long!

The success of last summer has Bostonians raving about the food, services, and superior atmosphere that Big Pig has to offer.

Just out of college these two local entrepreneurs are no strangers to a good time, and have incorporated their passion for cooking with their ambitions of running a profitable business that they both enjoy. A combined 10 years experience in the catering business and a family history that revolves around food and large gatherings has really shown through in their cooking and party planning.

Big Pig Barbecue & Catering is not only looking to cook finger licking barbecue this summer, but they are focusing on the bigger picture, the party experience as a whole.

"Chris and I are not satisfied until every person at the party is having the time of their life. Great tasting food, enjoyable music, and an unforgettable time, defines who we are and what we do," said Jon Hambrecht, Owner.

Big Pig Barbecue and Catering is a local, family owned business dedicated to preparing and serving American and southern style barbecue. It's quite simple, our experience allows us to deliver the highest quality of meat cooked on site and served hot-along with our freshly prepared sides and salads. The core value of the company will be outstanding barbecued meats and exceptional service.

"Since we are a local company, I personally answer every phone call and every email, and work closely with the customer to ensure their party is flawless and they are 100% satisfied with the food, service, and the price," said Chris LaBella, Owner.

For many customers, a roasted pig is not just food for the party, it is the party. So sit back, the entire home. Glass sliders lead to a 12' deck and the stairs lead to a level 10,000 sq. ft. lot bordered in the rear by natural conservation land.

The Great room is magnificent with notched vaulted ceilings, a tasteful ceiling fan, a gas fireplace with room above for your TV screen, and loads of thermopane windows insuring a fuel efficient home. Hardwood floors complete the elegance of this room.

The formal living room, once considered the backbone of a home, now offers the flexibility of use. From a toy room, to a media room, to a sitting room, to a formal living room as the years go by this room can be transformed to accommodate many uses.

The first floor bath is a half bath and includes laundry connections behind closed doors and a sturdy tile floor.

The entrance to the 2nd floor is a glossy wood stairway with white banisters and hand rubbed rails. The 2nd floor foyer features hardwood floors and a pull down stair for attic access.

The master bedroom offers enough room for a lounge as well as a full walk in closet, a master bath with a sit down shower. Glorious mosaic tiles accent the walls and highlight the double vanity sink, granite counter and tile floor.

The main bath is elegant in its simplicity and offers an abundance of decorating choices.

The two corner bedrooms offer sunlight, ample closet space and a significant amount of wall space to center dressers and beds alike.

The nursery/home office is a multi purpose room. From securing an infant in a crib, to a homework station or a home office, there are large windows, a sturdy closet, and the durability of hardwood flooring.

The outside of the home is vinyl sided with a molded stairway. The landscaping is complete with multi colored flowering shrubs and an asphalt driveway. The neighborhood has thrived generations of children growing up and attending the Robin Hood Elementary School and beyond. and a salute to Local Heroes

A supplement to the Town Crier
May 26, 2010

New granite Crosses and one Star of David mark the graves of Wilmington's fallen heroes. The formal unveiling will be at 11:30 on Sunday, May 30th

From our origins and to the future This year our salute to Local Heroes

On October 30, 1968, the Wilmington Company of Minute Men was re-activated by proclamation of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen and received a charter from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. William D. Meyer was elected Captain, Frank D. Curley became Lieutenant and fifteen men were enlisted. This was the beginning of our organization. Over the years, the names have changed, but the mission of promoting interest in Colonial history remains in tact.

We remember the original Minute Men who marched from Wilmington to Concord under Captain Caldwell Ford by marching to Concord ourselves on Patriots Day. We honor our deceased veterans by firing a cannon salute on Memorial and Veteran Days. Our Company marches in several parades throughout the year and never fails to receive applause from the crowd of on-lookers each time our muskets fire. Our cannon crew salutes the USS Constitution with their cannons as she sails past Castle Island and fires salutes to Fort Independence. Our Honor Guard can be seen during the Opening Day Ceremony for Wilmington Little League at Rotary Park, presenting the flags at the annual Wilmington Town Meeting, and a musket salute honoring several patriots who signed the Constitution at Grannery Burial ground during the Boston Fourth of July festivities.

We are a family orientated Company and are always seeking new members, both male and female. We have many members with children or grandchildren who participate in our events. Our Company participates in a variety of events which are fun for the whole family.

I am proud to lead this organization as we complete our forty-second year as an active and vibrant Company, looking forward to our many activities this year.

If you have an interest in becoming a member of our organization or have questions, please feel free to attend one of our monthly meetings or feel free to ask us questions when you see us at an event. We meet at our Headquarters which is located directly behind the Harnden Tavern and Wilmington Town Museum on the second Thursday of each month at 8 pm. Our web site is <http://wilmingtonminutemen.com>.

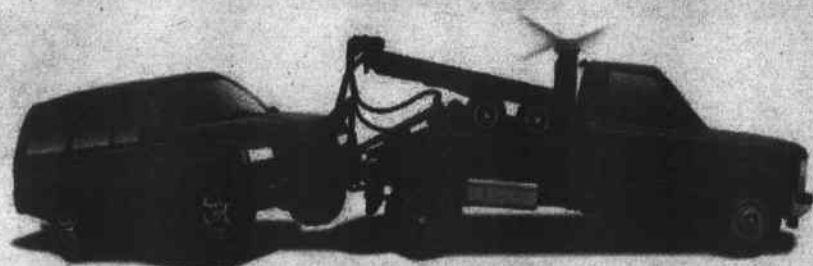

This supplement is dedicated to Local Heroes, Inc. Local Heroes and their many volunteers have sent over 10,000 care packages to our brave servicemen and servicewomen overseas. These care packages bring a piece of home to our soldiers and we are proud of their commitment in our nation's defense.

Local Heroes can be contacted via <http://mass-localheroes.org/>

The Wilmington Minutemen Company remembers our veterans past and present and thank them for their service and sacrifices to our country.

Just like the electric light bulb has improved living conditions for the people, the membership to the Wilmington Minuteman Company has been improved by including women in the membership. Here Nanci Robinson cast her ballot in the annual election of officers. To the right is the oldest member of the company, Jim Banda. Jim has officiated at nearly all of the 42 Drumhead Elections since the company's founding in 1968

Senator Tarr (wearing a modern suit) is always a welcome guest at the annual installation of officers. Here he poses with several of the members and their families under the portraits of the captains from the past 40 years.

WILMINGTON - As Memorial Day approaches, Veterans are honored in Wilmington while local troops serving overseas continue to receive packages from Wilmington's Local Heroes organization.

Ryan Carroccino, as part of the National Junior Honor Society at Wilmington's Middle School, reached out to Wilmington's Veterans' Agent Lou Cimaglia for a local project he could work on. Cimaglia, who had long been hoping for just such a service opportunity, suggested that Carroccino could raise funds to replace the crosses in the Veterans' Lot of the Wildwood Cemetery.

Cimaglia said Carroccino reached out to local businesses, individuals and organizations and raised funds to purchase 30 granite crosses and one Star of David to replace battered aluminum crosses that had been placed decades ago. Cimaglia noted that the crosses and star are the same size and shape as those in the American Cemeteries in Normandy.

"It is commendable for a young man to take on such a project; something that is going to be there forever," said Cimaglia. The Veterans' Lot honors both those Missing In Action and those Killed In Action. "These men that made the supreme sacrifice deserve all the respect we can give them.

Claire Troy, widow of WWII Army

Veteran Joseph Troy, made special covers to conceal the crosses and star until their formal unveiling on Memorial Day. The unveiling will take place at 11:30 a.m., after the Memorial Day Parade, at the Veterans' Lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

Meanwhile, Local Heroes recently reached another milestone as they packed their 11,000th care package to ship to troops serving overseas. For more than five and a half years the group has shipped boxes of toiletries, supplies and treats to make life more comfortable for troops. As of Wednesday, May 12, the group had packed and mailed 11,065 boxes.

At a meeting every Wednesday night, families with troops serving overseas can pack a box and send a message to their loved ones. Those who don't have a family member overseas are assigned names from an increasing list of service men and women who receive Local Heroes packages and share them with other troops.

Back at home, however, the volunteers of Local Heroes are not just supporting our troops; they are supporting each other through very emotional times. Everyone has his or her own reasons for being there. Some have loved ones currently serving overseas. Some have loved ones about to depart. Others are fortunate enough to have had their loved ones return home, but continue to attend meetings for camaraderie, or because they know how much the packages mean to the troops, or in hopes of helping others who now have someone overseas. Others have no loved ones currently serving, but have their own personal reasons for volunteering their time or resources.

Seven binders placed out on a table each week are filled with thank you notes and photos from troops, newspaper clippings, and heart wrenching stories of those killed in action. Occasionally returning troops come in for a meeting to thank everyone in person, to talk about their experiences or maybe just to lend a hand for the evening.

Sometimes even celebrities support Local Heroes. One binder had a note from Red Sox player Mike Timlin who thanked the group for "taking care of those who protect us." Author Dean Koontz donated autographed copies of his books to help raise funds.

Local Heroes welcomes creative donations from the community and there are always requests for coffee, tea, gum, candy, granola bars, soaps, deodorants, personal care products, movies, socks, sunscreen, etc. A full list of suggestions is available on the group's website at www.mass-local-heroes.org.

Local Heroes is 100 percent non-profit, has no political affiliation, and is 100 percent run and supported by volunteers. Cash donations are also welcomed to help with the costs of shipping the boxes. Fundraisers such as their late-summer golf tournament and motorcycle run are an important

Cimaglia commented that not even floods and blizzards have stopped the weekly shipping. He said, "In over five and a half years we haven't missed a week. It is an amazing show of support."

Wilmington Minutemen are busy

Each year on the Fourth of July Wilmington Minutemen and cannon crews from all over New England salute "Ole Ironsides" as she is taken out for her annual "turn-around" cruise.

The Bedford Liberty Pole Capping is the start of the "Marching season" - the first event in spring, just before Patriot's Day. Wilmington Minutemen have been attending for over 40 years.

		June 10 Monthly meeting Headquarters
June 7	Ancient and Honorable Artillery company	June 11 - 12 Encampment at Cub Scout "Minute Cub" event

Wilmington helped Tewksbury celebrate their 275th anniversary last year. They thrill parade watchers in towns small and large all over New England.

In July of 08 the Minutemen went for a special tour of the Massachusetts State House. Representative Miceli and Senator Tarr personally escorted the members of the Minutemen and their families through the historic state capitol.

June 14	Flag Day worn out flags to be honorably retired.	of Independence - Granery Burial Ground Cannon salute to "Old Ironsides" USS Constitution

August 12	Monthly meeting - Headquarters	Sept 9	Monthly meeting - Headquarters

Everyone, except Jenn Rich (center), loves it when the Minutemen fire off their muskets in a parade. Calls from the crowd like "Shoot Again!" are appreciated, but it takes time to load the muskets and the Minutemen are down the parade route before the next round is fired.

Each spring a cannon and musket safety course is taught by the Massachusetts Council of Minute and Militia. The Wilmington Minutemen host the course, which is not just for those who hold licenses to fire cannons, but a general safety course to familiarize all minutemen with the proper handling of the antique weapons.

During the musket course minutemen learn to disassemble, clean and reassemble their muskets, they learn what to inspect and how to safely fire them.

Community Support

A recent edition of the Town Crier carried this letter from Local Heroes founder, Lou Cimaglia

Dear Editor,

I am constantly awed by the selflessness of the individuals in our community when it comes to supporting our troops.

As Town Crier readers know very well, Local Heroes gets together every Wednesday evening at the Knights of Columbus in Wilmington to assemble care packages for the troops serving in harm's way.

Wilmington High School's Rotary Interact Club held a collection drive over the last few months to benefit Local Heroes. The club brought all of the collected items and funds to last Wednesday's meeting, and helped assemble packages. As a result, we sent out 36 packages. And the funds they raised paid the entire cost of postage, which came out to more than $600.

Thank you to the Interact Club. They are an outstanding group of young people who understand the importance of service to one's community.

Sincerely,

Lou Cimaglia

Over 11,000 packages have been sent, over 5 and a half years. Every Wednesday Local Heroes meets at the K of C Hall. Volunteer and donations are always welcome.
